Introduction

DO YOU KNOW THAT YOU are programmed to be who you are at this moment, with all your predicted successes and failures?

“Civilizations have been born and completed and then forgotten again and again. There is nothing new under the sun. What is has been. All that we learn and discover has existed before” (Colonel James Churchward, 33rd degree Freemason). However, “each generation imagines itself to be more intelligent than the one that went before it, and wiser than the one that comes after it” (George Orwell, 33rd degree Freemason).

Maybe you’ve been able to somehow challenge the system in which you’ve been raised by achieving some things that weren’t expected in your lifetime while complying with many others that you weren’t in favor of, but surely you didn’t transform it enough, or you would have lost friends, relatives, jobs and even love. “Anyone who challenges the prevailing orthodoxy finds himself silenced with surprising effectiveness. A genuinely unfashionable opinion is almost never given a fair hearing” (George Orwell, Freemason).

Do you remember quitting your dreams? It was supposed to happen. Any advice received from people around you, especially the ones that love you the most, were fabricated to make you follow the same mind programming in which you and them are included so that nobody goes out of it. “If thought corrupts language, language can also corrupt thought” (George Orwell, Freemason), and that’s how the sentences heard since you were born, from parents, teachers and friends, as well as ideas strongly imposed by the media, conditioned the way you think as an individual.

This programming is so strong that interferes with our emotions and affects our personality. Nonetheless, within this book a path is shown to deprogram yourself, develop the power of being aware of the universal truth and change life as much as you want it to be changed.

Hopefully, you'll "stretch thinking and awareness" while "uncovering many truths" just like other readers of this bestseller recognized to have accomplished.

We're now living in the Age of Aquarius, and "as Aquarius is an airy, scientific and intellectual sign, the New Faith for this age must be rooted in reason" (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship). This is the prophecy and this book shows the way to understand it and accept it by alchemically transforming your conscience and spirit for the order of the new world.

Taking into consideration the amount of information presented here and the level of simplification applied, this is surely the most empowering, enlightening, complete and uplifting book you'll ever read in your entire life about gaining wealth, power and health with the law of attraction.

The Power of the Elite

THIS BOOK DOESN'T INTEND to explore or make use of the knowledge of secret societies in a way that can make it become misinterpreted but neither exalts them with a dogmatic interpretation.

It must be known that, although the most influential and powerful people in all of human history, and in the fields of art, music, politics and religion, were linked to secret societies and ended up promoting, as well as indirectly allowing, the formation of what today is known as the Power Elite, there isn't necessarily a direct link between both occurrences, as much as in the valley of the blind the one-eyed man is king.

Those to whom we call the Power Elite, the Illuminati, the Watchers, the 1%, aren't as enlightened as you would feel if holding a torch in the middle of a dark and wild forest.

Although it may be true that the knowledge that these individuals possess is directly linked to the power, wealth, creativity and influence that they have accumulated, it's also directly correlated to the enormous level of ignorance that the rest of the world has become accustomed to experience as a routine and to call normal.

This said, they're as evil as the teeth of a hungry crocodile inside a lake with swimmers, which is the same as to say that they have as much power as we allow them to have, without evaluating their character or even caring about it.

Our fellow man has learned to hate his brothers and sisters, worship authority, reject knowledge and wisdom, and embrace animalistic predispositions, such as anger, violence, competition, laziness, lust and hate. And, in this sense, we can say that humanity has done its best in empowering humans with the truth that they reject.

Either through authoritarian or revolutionary actions, nearly nothing was truly obtained for the future of the human race, except for a potential for freedom that this same race neglects, misuses and rejects.

There's nothing we can do against human stupidity and it is as dangerous as the power that it permitted for some men in the world to rise above others while not having the right to possess it.

It is here that books like this one assume a major importance, not in presenting something that the Power Elite already knows, but in allowing those that aren't part of it, to have a better insight about the truth, so that they too may be able to see the world as it is, behind the curtains of neurotic beliefs of lost masses and the purposely created delusions of the Power Elite, which intend to empower it furthermore while guaranteeing such status forever.

The History of Deception

ALTHOUGH THE FREEMASONS and their connection to the Knights Templar, along with a fairytale about secret magic scrolls found in Jerusalem in the middle ages, is the common assumption for the lineage and history of the Power Elite, it's actually just the story that most can perceive from their lack of ability to truly understand beyond that and due to the limitation imposed by the connections that the most influential individuals of today's world have to Masonic Lodges.

The true story, however, like the history of mankind, and also every man, is much more complex than it seems or would be desirable to have in order to explain it well or even to be accepted.

Our world has achieved such a level of deception, that anyone will either angrily or laughably reject the true facts at this point, even if shown with the necessary evidence.

As an example, the scrolls of Nag Hammadi, although being enough to discredit the whole Christian faith as it is known today, received a reaction that proves how much humanity doesn't care about the truth, but instead prefers neurotic fairytales invented within their social circles and more easily accepted by their level of conscience. And this is the real reason why the Power Elite continues increasing their wealth and power over the masses while restricting their freedom.

This has nothing to do with secret societies or religious orders but the greed that our human nature, when detached from moral values, tends to make prevail in our actions.

This greed is empowered by knowledge, but we shouldn't be burning books or reject such knowledge, as what happened during the Inquisition and World War 2. We should instead share it and learn it, while using it to choose more positive individuals as leaders, as it was intended by those that kept it a secret in the beginning of times.

The intention of these first societies to stay secret, was related to the need for selecting only the noblest hearts to share the mystical wisdom.

But, over the years, this secrecy allowed that many powerful, rich and influential individuals of evil nature could access a tremendous amount of information that allowed them to go beyond what they could have done without it.

There's indeed nothing in common between the virtuous ones that kept this wisdom a secret in order to protect it from falling into the wrong hands and those that keep it secret to empower their families and secure their wealth throughout future generations.

As an analogy, we can compare the Christians that beat their wives and children after a Sunday mass with the rest, or the cult leaders that take the life of their followers with those that uplift them and are still worshiped and followed far after their death.

Just like we can't say that all priests are pedophiles because of the acts of some, we can't say that all secret societies are dangerous as well. Only a mad man wouldn't see the difference and only an ignorant man wouldn't consider the similarities.

Why Secret Societies are Secret

IT IS THE CRUELTY OF men that we must fear, not the wisdom they misuse, and certainly not the wise that possess it.

The knowledge presented in this book has saved many lives that the world needs and has uplifted it since the beginning of human history. And it has saved the lives of individuals that, without it, would be lost and vulnerable to a predatory world that rejects them for seeing more, acknowledging faster and being kinder than the animalistic majority.

This knowledge has saved my life countless times as well and when I needed it the most, during my existence as a spirit, not only in this body. And therefore, having seen the arrogance and selfishness of this world, I cannot say that I'm writing these pages for the love of it, or for the love of the human race, and I certainly understand why it had to be kept a secret. I'm writing this book for those that, like me, need it and will always, one way or another, find it, because that's their destiny and God wouldn't want it otherwise, to fulfill His goals of having a prosperous and positively vibrant society, instead of the one that we have become accustomed to accept and that we can't possibly be proud about.

While the world tries to quickly erase, from the collective memory and its books, the acts of evil, destruction and crime, perpetrated by human beings against one another, acts that have always certainly been more prominent in the weak than in the strongest, it is said that a few special ones have saved mankind, with their wisdom, art, intentions and books. "We know that even today only a very small percentage are ready to live as near the truth as they see it, to confess it and profess it before men by service and by righteous and harmless living" (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

It must be clearly stated that they had the knowledge presented in these pages, and therefore it must continue being protected and shared, otherwise there's no salvation possible for anyone. "Man has gotten up to the potential of destroying the planet. He must be pushed on up to the capability and actions of saving it” (Ron Hubbard, founder of Scientology).

This ancient wisdom is the true reason why Jesus Christ and many other masters of these spiritual insights were murdered and their knowledge corrupted afterwards by men of greed and lust for power. And it has always occurred with the support of the masses and the silence of those with a good heart, the ones that could see it.

“All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing” (Edmund Burke, Freemason), but “silence in the face of evil is itself evil: God will not hold us guiltless. Not to speak is to speak. Not to act is to act (Dietrich Bonhoeffer, founder of the Confessing Church and murdered in a concentration camp). “Those who make peaceful revolution impossible, make violent revolution inevitable (John F. Kennedy, Illuminati, member of the Knights of Columbus and murdered for being opposed to secrecy).

Men shouldn’t fear or hate what they do not know but study it and share it instead. It is both an act of selfishness and cruelty to seek for the destruction of wisdom and the wise, but also to keep silent when witnessing it happening. Therefore, let us learn about it and share it with others that can use it wisely and for a good end. This is the kindest and most loving action anyone can do for mankind to survive and understand its purpose on earth.

The Truth Uniting All Religions

IF THE MEMBERS OF EVERY religion and secret society in the world truly knew the source of their belief system, they wouldn't follow their priests, leaders and prophets, but would instead search for the immediate link within that lineage.

All religious dogmas seem separated, when in fact they're united under the same rules and divided only by interpretations and groups.

The holy books of Hinduism, for example, don't actually belong to Hinduism. Hinduism and Sikhism are just groups that took them and used them, further enriching this compilation of texts with others written by the leaders of these societies.

In ancient times there were no copyrights, so it was easy to create a multitude of groups that copied the same texts and translated them in their own way, from which the bible is one example. The bible is a specific compilation of selected texts that were then translated in ways that actually dramatically change and corrupt the source from which they were taken. To make this compilation credible to the masses, a huge amount of ancient gnostic texts written by the apostles were refused and then destroyed.

The followers of such texts were then persecuted and the Inquisition is one of the most visible examples of such persecution, even though it had started far before, when the Christian Roman Empire was avoiding religious competition from other opposing systems of belief. And it continued until later years, with the persecution of the Protestant Church in Europe.

Today, there's a huge amount of information available, which could make religious people look dumb, but, if you start a religion, you can't use that information, because it has copyright ownership, and that's the irony of the modern world. One thousand years ago, a book like this one would be seen by some as heretic and by others as amazing. The firsts would try to destroy it and silence its author, while the seconds, a wise, bright, curious and enlightened minority, would try to protect it and create a society to share it.

This book could easily become the foundation of a new secret society, but in today's world it's just one more among millions, and sharing the same thing in a different way, just like other books about spirituality.

If we want to understand the delusional source of the material world from which all misunderstandings arise, this acknowledgement is a good starting point.

Code 1: There is only one truth.

The Order of the Knights Templar

THE ORDER OF THE KNIGHTS Templar is indeed responsible for the Power Elite of our modern world, but they were already part of it in the Medieval period, as the order started with the European nobility.

Their knowledge has many roots, because the members of this society had a huge curiosity for the truth about Jesus Christ.

The evidence they found about Christ opposed what they had been taught by the Roman Church, the most powerful organization in Europe after the fall of the Roman Empire. This knowledge wasn't complete and had many influences, but allowed a better understanding of ancient mysteries, which these knights dedicated themselves to study.

To resume a complex story in a few words, that couldn't possibly be enough to clarify known concepts, Jesus wasn't a carpenter but a builder, and that's where the words alchemist and mason originate. Jesus was teaching Gnosticism to his followers, which consists in the art of empowering the spirit through transmutation, in order to understand and change reality with the power of thought and faith.

This school of knowledge was passed to him by other traditions found in those locations and it's the same as what is seen in ancient Indian, Tibetan, Sumerian, Babylonian, Egyptian, Persian, Greek and even the lost Atlantic traditions. Even the Bible contains the same knowledge, although written in code, which allows secret societies to study the same book from a perspective that is unknown and even preposterous to mainstream Christians.

With this knowledge in hand, the Knights were able to accumulate great power and wealth in a short period of time, making themselves threatening to the kings of Europe and the Roman Church.

The Templars were the ones that brought to Europe the real Christianity, which matches many other philosophies, and were also the first society in Europe to create a banking system, having Switzerland as their headquarters.

When accused of heresy and then persecuted, they had to disappear from the public eye, but were able to keep their power and influence by rewriting history in a way that is gradually becoming exposed in our days, in this era of awakening, the Era of Aquarius.

The History of European Gnosticism

THE FREEMASONS CLAIM to descend from the Knights Templar but, as in other religions, this isn't necessarily true and the story is more complex than it seems.

The Knights Templar learned many mystical philosophies from the ancient Sumerian, Mesopotamian, Egyptian, Essene and Gnostic priesthoods. In those times, there wasn't such homogeneity among people as we see today or a strong monotheism in religious practices, so it was much easier to find followers of different beliefs and many texts that hadn't yet been destroyed by the ignorance of men.

At the time of the crusades, there were many and different secret mystic schools in the Middle East directly linked to the Greek mystic schools followed by Plato, Socrates and Pythagoras, which had taken knowledge from the Egyptian schools, and that's why Plato knew about Atlantis.

The world has always been divided between people's religion and the elite's religion, so in fact almost all famous individuals in human history were educated in the ancient mysteries while the rest worshipped figures of stone and symbols.

What we can see in India today is an example of that ancient reality. The poor and uneducated majority worships monsters and gods made of clay and stone, while wise individuals become extremely rich and powerful with the exact same books.

This happens because the masses can't understand what they read and the elite don't want them to understand either. If the masses made efforts to understand those writings in a way that defies their schizophrenic belief system and the elite helped them become enlightened, there wouldn't be any elite in the first place, and people couldn't be ruled. That would lead to the anarchy that we were taught to fear, in which everyone would be fully responsible for his own life and the moral standards of society would be so high that we wouldn't have to fear criminality, rivalry and jealousy anymore.

As long as we believe that we're just intellectual monkeys, instead of spiritual beings, this won't ever happen.

The story of Jesus follows the exact same background. Christians started worshiping symbols and a God, a ruler of gods, while in fact Jesus was a gnostic, and Gnosticism is a completely different philosophy, also related to Hinduism and Buddhism. And there's actually evidence and many documents proving that he was in India and Tibet, even in the Bible, because Jesus was unknown until he was 30 years old. And, before that, the Bible just says that he had disappeared for several years of his life, while the Tibetans have evidence showing that he was there during this time, studying their texts.

As for what concerns his legacy, to the Gnostics Mary Magdalene was the person to whom Jesus entrusted his church. But the other apostles envied her, so she was eventually slandered by Christianity.

Peter, the first Pope, said: "Make Mary leave us, for females don't deserve life" (Gospel of Thomas), "we are not able to suffer this woman who takes the opportunity from us" (The Pistis Sophia). And regarding this Mary later tells Jesus: "I am afraid of Peter, for he threatens me and hates our race (the Gnostics)" (The Pistis Sophia).

The apostles disliked her because she was "the knower, the one who understands, the one who is sensual and wise, sensitive and emotional" (Jane Schaberg).

Mainstream Christianity describes Mary Magdalene as a penitent sinner and a redeemed prostitute, but in Gnosticism she's seen as the leader of the Christian Church. Jesus "loved her more than the other disciples" (Gospel of Philip) and "more than the rest of the women" (The Gospel of Mary), and said to her, "Mary, thou blessed one, who I will complete in all the mysteries" (The Pistis Sophia), because "I have given you authority over all things and Sons of Light" (The Sophia of Jesus Christ). So, after comforting the Apostles because of the departure of Christ, Mary Magdalene tells them: "What is hidden from you, I will proclaim to you" (The Gospel of Mary).

During the time in which the apostles were being persecuted, she runaway to the south of France, and that's where legends about the first secret societies and Gnosticism started being spread in Europe.

According to the Knights Templar heirs of The Sovereign Magistral Order of the Temple of Solomon, "the heretical Gnostic story, which was passionately believed by the Templars, was that Jesus and Mary Magdalene had a daughter, named Sarah, and that with the help of Joseph of Arimathea, Jesus sent Mary on a boat through the Mediterranean Sea to arrive in the South of France, to begin a new life in safety with her daughter Sarah, and to begin teaching and spreading the Gospels as one of the Apostles".

France is also the birthplace of the Knights Templar. So, for all these reasons, France is seen by the Gnostics as the birthplace of European Gnosticism. And it's not a coincidence that the statue of liberty, in the USA, a gift from French freemasons, represents a pregnant woman with the torch of enlightenment in her hand.

It's also in France that Leonardo Da Vinci, author of the famous painting of the last supper of Christ, spent his last days and many other famous, and controversial artists, found shelter.

The painting of the last supper is an obvious evidence that Leonardo Da Vinci was a Gnostic, as he portrays Mary Magdalene as the wife of Christ and successor to his Church, but shows Peter holding a knife with his right hand, while threatening Mary Magdalene with the left hand in her throat, as if he was showing his intention of decapitating the head of true Christianity.

After the Knights Templar

THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR were precursors of many secret societies, kept secret to protect their knowledge from being found and destroyed, but also to protect the name and life of their members.

In time, this secrecy contributed to hide a huge influence of the future members of these orders in many historical events, unfortunately, most of them with negative, megalomaniacal and revengeful repercussions over mankind.

The first secret orders were created in countries where the Templars went underground, protected by their kings, such as Scotland, Portugal and Spain.

World maps and an immense technology about navigation learned from the Arabs, as well as the monetary investment needed to put ambitious ideas into practice, were already in the hands of the Templars that, through the Kings of Portugal and Spain, competed for the resources of the world and ended up dividing it in two parts, while in Scotland they gradually gained military and monarchic influence, eventually creating the British Empire.

The famous personalities behind the foundation and explorations of Portugal, including its first king, were Templars, later creating a new order, named the Order of Christ. So this country didn't exactly discover the world. The Templars already had maps of nearly the whole planet, including North America, and the wealth to build the boats that allowed the Portuguese and Spanish crowns to travel to vast lands and plunder their riches.

From 1159 to 1314, year in which Grand Master Jacques de Molay was sentenced to burn alive at the stake, the city of Tomar, in Portugal, was actually the European headquarters of the Knights Templar. And changed, in that same year, to the hands of the Order of Christ, to give the impression that the Templars had vanished from Europe, while the cross of the Order of Christ painted in every single Portuguese caravel proves otherwise.

The influence of the Templars in Spain only begun in 1581, after a succession crisis forced Portuguese nobility to gather in the Convent of Christ in Tomar and officially recognize Philip II of Spain as King. This was the beginning of the Iberian Union (1581–1640), during which the Crowns of Portugal and Spain were united in a dynastic union and eventually ruled over nearly the entire known world.

The territories occupied by the Iberian Union went from South America to Asia. And having control over both countries made it easier for the Templars to expand their fortune and influence.

However, their order wasn't united from the beginning and rivalry increased till our days, reason why we can't blame all for the behaviors of some.

While the Portuguese and the Spanish Templars competed for the resources available in the planet after the decline of the Iberian Union, and to secure important business transactions between Europe and the rest of the world, the British, French and Dutch Templars supported and financed Piracy. Their symbol became an identification of the Skulls and Bones Society.

On the other hand, even though the Portuguese and Spanish Templars were able to accumulate a vast wealth in gold and silver, the British, French and Dutch Templars created the East India Company in 1600 and the first world stock market exchange, to replace a monetary system based on gold and silver, which later allowed them to gain control over the trade monopoly with interest backed by shares on paper, leading to the creation of paper-money as we see it today.

It's still noticeable that the Coat of Arms of the East India Company is the Templar cross and their logo is a derivative of the Pirate's symbolism.

This strategy changed forever the way business is done and allowed them to surpass Portugal and Spain, whose economy kept worsening until our present time.

United in greed, French, Dutch and British Templars, were able to defeat the Portuguese and the Spanish, later invading and claiming territories occupied by them. But, divided by that same greed, they fought for their private interest and defeated one another, allowing Britain to become the number one.

Today, there's a huge monopolistic influence in all of these countries securing British Imperialism. The use of the dollar as an exchange currency in the world's economy and the Commonwealth of Nations (formerly known as British Commonwealth) with Queen Elizabeth II as the Head of the Organization, are both strategies that emerged from this very important historical moment for world economy, and which allowed the British Templars to secure the British Empire as the world's most influential till our days.

As for what concerns spiritual knowledge, disagreements within these societies, and the need to develop more research on schools of mysticism and ancient religions, are in the origin of new orders.

Many of them disappeared in time, although the rituals and symbols remained in practice by the governments of these countries. Others grew in influence and power, and eventually divided themselves into new societies with different purposes.

Their spiritual knowledge was also expanded, thanks to influential individuals in their societies contributing to studies on alchemy. From these studies, many new mystic schools were born, being the Freemasons and the Rosicrucian Fellowship two of the most famous among them.

The Knights Templar Heirs

IN THE USA, THE HEIRS of the Templars saw an opportunity to start a new country of their own, and many of these societies moved there and expanded furthermore to new independent groups. The first Church of Scientology, for example, was born in California, the same city where the Rosicrucian Fellowship built its Headquarters, and uses the same symbols.

Scientology may seem unique and very well-explained, but Ron Hubbard didn't create anything new, just like the Freemasons and many others. Almost everything in Scientology, including the emotional scale, was already known to the Rosicrucian Fellowship, and merely explored, simplified and extended by Ron Hubbard.

The Rosicrucian Fellowship is more directly linked to the Knights Templar and older than Freemasonry. The word Mason and most of the rituals in Freemasonry originate from Rosicrucian texts.

Nevertheless, if people knew the truth, they wouldn't be in Freemasonry, Scientology or any other of the newest branches, but the oldest system they could find. And that's why most of these societies distort their real history, providing an idea to members that they're much older than they seem to be. They often proclaim themselves as, not only heirs of the Knight Templar wisdom, but also Egyptian, Hindu and, sometimes, Extra Terrestrial.

Ron Hubbard, founder of Scientology, was also a close friend and student of the famous Aleister Crowley, which founded a new Knights Templar Order and was a great influence in the foundation of the Satanic Church of Anton LaVey.

Less known are others, that are either older or newer, but follow the exact same principles, formally known as Christian Gnosticism, even though, in many cases, they refuse to study or talk about Christ, or follow religious scriptures that aren't their own, or the ones created by their founders.

Gnosticism means knowledge, so the word can indeed be applied for non-Christian studies.

For the common mortal, it's definitely difficult to understand what Christian Societies, Gnostic Orders and Satanic Groups all have in common, and that's why the world will always be confused about this type of knowledge or how to use it, just like it still is about the differences between good and evil or faith and magic.

Freemasons and Rosicrucians have as much in common as Christians and Satanists, Scientologists and Freezoners, or Gnostics and Hindus. But, only when the whole world reaches the spiritual level of becoming able to connect religious systems, will the human race finally find peace and enlightenment on earth.

We haven't evolved in our understanding about spirituality or gained more knowledge about it. What we've done was create more organizations based on the exact same principles, so that everyone can be happy and worship or not whoever they want, while interpreting the same words in their own way.

The level of expansion is today such, that most of these schools won't see any link connecting them and won't also, in many cases, use the same books.

The vast majority of the members in these societies don't know this, because, like anyone else, they're afraid to think by themselves, while blindly following their leaders and worshiping them like prophets of the only truth, or the supreme truth above other truths.

This knowledge is very ancient and important, but difficult to understand for the majority of the population. That's why some real prophets come to the scene, as they aren't necessarily prophets, but simply individuals that can interpret these books and end up creating their own school of knowledge. And, because they face persecution, have to make it into a secret society with special rituals, initiations and laws.

The reason why the persecution exists is related to the influence they have. As an example, the Church of Scientology, being more organized and the fastest growing religion in the world, with procedures that resemble military systems and a huge fortune, is more easily targeted by the public and other orders, which even used the FDA at one point to confiscate their materials.

On the other hand, the Rosicrucian school is much more difficult to understand and study, and that's why nobody really cares about trying to mock, discredit or persecute them, even though both schools are based in the exact same principles and use the same symbolism.

Abstraction has always been an efficient mechanism of defense to hide the truth from the public eye, while misleading the immoral or rejected, but egotistical individuals neglected it when promoting themselves above the sacred secrets. And that, not only caused their decline, but also attracted the interest of the most diabolical in society.

It's also meaningful to add that most gnostic schools focus in different things, and with a very unique interpretation about them. So, while some societies, like Scientology, are easier to understand, Rosicrucian writings and concepts, or even the oldest Gnostic writings, are farer from the common mind to grasp, and most wouldn't be able to understand anything without suitable help.

This difficulty is related to the fact that we don't understand this knowledge with our brain. Spiritual knowledge implies awareness and that's why these societies have hierarchies, branches, exercises or rituals of purification, and focus on a ladder or pyramid to a complete conscious awakening, also known as freedom from the influences of the material world, or freedom in the art of masonry.

Knowingly or unknowingly, members of these groups are being trained in the art of Masonry, but the topic is complex and has been also confused with Witchcraft and Satanism, because it follows the same paradigm about control over the physical nature of existence. These individuals see the world and humans in a very special and unique way, while “the majority are unable to see beneath the surface of the physical body and thus to perceive the true state of the thoughts and feelings of others” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

The Rivalry within Secret Societies

THE EXPANSION IN SPIRITUAL wisdom, while the masses were kept blindly worshipping gods, caused many orders to reinterpret their Gnostic philosophies in opposing ways, and that's when the Luciferian beliefs, sexual rituals and even human sacrifices emerged, although the vast majority is openly against these practices and reject the principles of those that follow them.

The persecution of many of those orders and their leaders caused a greater loss and affected their members, whose attitudes are in their vast majority good and uplifting, and extremely necessary for the rest of humanity to survive.

In the last centuries, we haven't witnessed only a war commanded by the Power Elite against the masses, but also against itself, trying to diminish the number of members with the capability to make changes in the world, while suppressing the knowledge available to do it.

At one point, it wasn't any more about religious secrets, but wealth, politics and world domination. And the dimension of this problem has increased beyond any reasonable ethical or spiritual belief.

Today it's all about psychopaths with a tremendous political power and greed without humanitarian limits.

Hitler was an Illuminati and a Knight of Malta, and was against Freemasonry. In his book, Mein Kampf, Hitler wrote that "the general pacifistic paralysis of the national instinct of self-preservation begun by Freemasonry". And Hermann Göring, a leading member of the Nazi Party, stated that "in National Socialist Germany, there is no place for Freemasonry".

The number of Freemasons from Nazi occupied countries, who were murdered in concentration camps, is estimated to be around 200 thousand. But Freemasonry was also persecuted in nearly every Communist country.

Although history has once united these organizations, reason why they still use the same words to describe themselves and their rituals, a long path of treason, deception and greed for power, has made them become distinguishable in interests, policies and political agendas. In fact, the first time I was shown the faces of the Illuminati and their ultimate plan of using the RFID chip to control the world population, in a secret meeting between selected members nearly 20 years ago, this information was presented to me as something very bad, not a plan to be supported.

This competitive path for world domination is also behind project paperclip, a program used to recruit the scientists of Nazi Germany for employment by the United States, as well as the creation of NATO and ONU.

Today, it's very difficult for anyone to see what is true or false, because these societies have been corrupted in their highest hierarchies. Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely.

The power of many of these societies made them forget their purposes as a religion to focus on the interests of sociopaths.

Among the most influential and powerful groups today, we find the Bavarian Illuminati, The Knights of Malta, The Bilderberg Group and the Skulls and Bones. All US Presidents, most European Monarchs and Politicians, but also several famous musicians, actors and scientists, have been initiated in one of them.

On the other hand, while historical facts could make us believe that there's an opposition of Freemasonry towards the beliefs of the Roman Church, most of the modern and extremist Christian Societies, such as the Jehovah Witnesses and Mormonism, were created by Freemasons.

While this happens, another order claiming direct lineage from the Knights Templar (The Sovereign Magistral Order of the Temple of Solomon) says, regarding Freemasonry, that: "it's only connection to Masonry is one single isolated event of transient history, solely the fact that the Freemasonry movement was created in Scotland (in the 15th century) as a limited offshoot of a regional sub-group flowing from the 12th century Knights Templar. Ever since that brief moment in history, Masonry has evolved independently in its own direction, and has no affiliation with the modern continuation of the original Templar Order. Such Masonic “Knights Templar” are not Solomonic Templars: They are exclusively Masons, defined solely by their own separate (and very different) traditions and beliefs. Some genuine and important (but limited) Templar knowledge had been transferred to the Masons, and they subsequently used that for their own purposes at their own discretion”.

The Knights Templar controversy doesn’t end here though, as in 2008 another order, also claiming lineage from the Templars, the Association of the Sovereign Order of the Temple of Christ, decided to sue the Vatican in $150 billion for assets seized by the Catholic Church in 1307.

It’s also worth mentioning that these groups have, at some point in time, suffered the infiltration of agents, corruption of the knowledge studied and the influence of private interests. After Ron Hubbard’s mysterious death, for example, a young boy, named David Miscavige, currently the leader of his church, replaced him and then replaced the Scientologists in the highest rankings, despite a written last will clearly attributing authority to his wife, Mary Sue Hubbard.

Those that abandoned the Church of Scientology, created an organization named Freezone, and believe that, “since the death of the founder of the movement, the Church of Scientology has completely strayed from the original philosophy and purpose of the group which Hubbard first researched and developed” (Freezone Scientology).

Unfortunately, human beings haven’t learned to separate the knowledge from the reputation of an organization or its leader, so the Inquisition of the Templars hasn’t ended, people are still being murdered, persecuted, ridiculed and feared for what they do and believe, and there’ll always be those that take revenge against the organizations behind it as well as the ignorant masses, within which many innocents pay with their own lives.

The biggest revolutions mankind has witnessed, the world wars and the constant fights for power, are all demonstrations of the madness of men of extreme power.

The symbols may always be the same, but we mustn't be confused by this fact, as these societies keep diving themselves every time members decide to reinterpret the knowledge differently and start a new group under a different name, or when someone at the top decides to change everything to fit his agenda while maintaining the same name and symbols.

Some end up becoming more famous than others, but they're just like different religions following the exact same book from, sometimes, completely different perspectives.

Powerful and famous people are responsible for the promotion of their groups and, as the United States, a country founded by Freemasons and Rosicrucians, grew in power over the rest of the world, it's only natural that the most famous secret societies today are North American.

Any perversion of the knowledge within such groups is of the sole responsibility of their leaders.

Another aspect worth mentioning is that, many current societies, in order to achieve more power and influence, invite individuals from already powerful and rich families, or with great influence over the masses, such as artists and politicians, to join them.

This strategy of expansion made them forget moral and ethical values in order to increase competitive leverage among themselves, and that's why we now associate them with evil, war, politics and oppression, although actually only a very small minority of individuals is responsible for this and the rest is predominantly good and truly more kind and wise than the majority of the population, with or without religious beliefs.

Most followers are in those groups for the benefits offered, usually monetary, social, spiritual or intellectual, and end up obeying rules they don't agree with, just because they don't want to lose such privileges.

The gap between the majority of the world and the amount of knowledge provided inside those groups is so profound, that it's actually very difficult to detach from it. Besides, this gap has been increasing, as the IQ and economical status of the world population decreases dramatically and rapidly, making such decisions become even frightening in today's reality.

System Failures

THE INCREASING NUMBER of people around the world, including children, suffering from psychological and emotional disorders, is a reflection of how strong the mind manipulation in our world is.

The DSM (Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders) was created to identify these effects, but not to cure their cause, as they're a reflection of the hidden plan behind their origin.

The fact is that there isn't a cure for consciousness, and feeling bad about ourselves reflects the evidence that there's something terribly wrong with this world and the way it affects our personal reality. And yet, "none are so hopelessly enslaved as those who falsely believe they are free" (Johann Wolfgang Von Goethe, Freemason).

Most Psychiatrists admit the irrelevancy of such manual and the arbitrary power it allows for the administration of drugs that suppress conscience, or the use of therapies that severely damage the ability to think efficiently. And despite that, electrotherapy prevails today, nearly 200 years after being invented, while fluoride, the favorite chemical toxin of the Nazis in the war for mind control, can be found in most antidepressants as well as toothpaste.

The motto behind the actions of Modern Medicine is that "it is not truth that matters, but victory" (Adolf Hitler, Illuminati).

Nobody can escape this network, which has grown in influence and is gradually introducing us to transhumanism. Those that try it, are condemned to failure and rejection by society.

Truly, "in a time of universal deceit, telling the truth is a revolutionary act" (George Orwell, Freemason), and many have paid with their own life for doing it.

The lie starts early in school, when the most creative are often labeled with ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder) and then medicated with Ritalin, a drug containing more fluoride than any common antidepressant (94%).

There's clearly a war against freedom of conscience happening, and the most resistant fighters are the chosen victims, in a deliberate, persistent and consistent dumbing down of the population.

The Law of Attraction

THE LAW OF ATTRACTION is just the tip of the iceberg in the amount of power that each being has to change everything in his own reality. The personal perspective of the world is merely the beginning.

Most of what's being told about the law of attraction is simply a demonstration of the whole truth interacting in the world. The fact is that the law of attraction can never be fully understood without the acknowledgement of the social programming and how the Power Elite became powerful or how they keep such power. "It's called transference. It's very common in symbology. The Nazis took the swastika from the Hindus, the Christians adopted the cruciform from the Egyptians" (Dan Brown, in Angels & Demons).

This concept, however, can go much deeper than daily life symbols, when we start analyzing our ideas about money and wealth, or our values and needs, as well as our priorities and dreams.

"Nothing exists except through human consciousness" (George Orwell, Freemason), therefore you can't really make significant changes in your dimensional existence if they're incompatible with your belief system. You can only attract ideas that match your thoughts, so the expansion of thought is proportional to the amount of knowledge acquired. That's why "poor people have a big TV and rich people have a big library" (Jim Rohn, Freemason).

Within this chain of predictable actions, we behave according to what we believe, so we can't see what's outside our spectrum of possible realities. "Where focus goes, energy flows" (Tony Robbins), but "you don't get paid for the hour; you get paid for the value you bring to the hour" (Jim Rohn), so you never attract money but lessons to understand it through hard work, because this is the intermediate process to change your thoughts about money before changing the reality of lacking it.

The same applies when attracting love, cars, vacations and job opportunities. Without self-love, you'll attract someone that hurts you, without a purpose for the car, you may crash it in an accident, and vacations or job opportunities will eventually teach you something else, related to self-respect and management of space.

We're always attracting our future, but by default and with irresponsibility. Within this process, we attract problems to learn from them and to understand ourselves furthermore, but we tend to reject confrontation, refuse responsibility and point fingers at others.

In time, fear and sadness eliminates our dreams, and we become apathetic to life in order to feel happier. And, that's the origin of the widespread social belief that "happiness can exist only in acceptance" (George Orwell, Freemason). This principle tells us that our wishes are predictable and we wish what we're supposed to wish, because you can't wish that which you can't see.

The Steps to Enlightenment

THE FOLLOWING STEPS resume the laws of our human universe:

Knowledge (insights and perceptions about life) leads to awareness;

Awareness (light of conscience) leads to potential;

Potential (the lightening force) leads to opportunity;

Opportunity (union with the physical world) leads to creativity;

Creativity (masonry or the art of changing reality with thoughts) leads to inspiration;

Inspiration (ideas) leads to truth;

Truth (neutral perception or the ability to see without thinking) leads to power;

Power (achievement) leads to transformation;

Transformation (transmutation) leads to wisdom;

Wisdom is immortality, the immortal perception of life.

In other words, we can only wish something different after changing ourselves:

Insights-Light-Lightening-Union-Masonry-Ideas-Neutrality-Achievement-Transformation or ILLUMINATI.

Code 2: Illuminati.

When trying to apply the law of attraction, or changing life in a positive direction, most people are stopped before the first step (insights), so they fail in their results, even if trying very hard. This happens because they don't read and they don't want to study anything, so they can't understand anything about the world as well.

The study of gnostic texts is an introduction to this level.

When the first level is achieved, a person may be stopped in the second step (light), because they can't understand what they read and its application. This is the situation of most individuals with college degrees.

The ones that are stopped in the third step (lightening) are those that don't have energy due to a poor health condition or unhealthy habits.

In the fourth step (union) we find individuals that don't take action because they're afraid to fail.

In the fifth step (masonry) are the ones that can't learn from their mistakes or develop ideas from such experience.

As an example, schools don't teach children how to think, but merely to obey and memorize, because if they knew how to think, they could reach this level later in life, to change their reality and become something that the system can't predict.

Art is the best exercise to develop this skill but most educational systems promote mathematics while suppressing artistic demonstrations.

In the sixth step (ideas) are all those that don't work enough to get inspiration. They're not in love with what they do, so they can't go beyond that activity. This is the stage of the heart, as ideas can only come from an activity in which the heart and the mind are connected.

In the seventh step (neutrality) are personalities that develop arrogance, as this is the step of the third eye or intuition. Only by being humble and "neutral" can a person develop this skill. Meditation exercises this ability, but it can't be gained by those that haven't yet overcome the previous steps.

The eightieth step (achievement) is blocked for anyone that can't or is too afraid to follow his intuition. This is the level where faith is tested. When a person applies faith to achieve results and obtains them, a transformation occurs from within, because gnostic mysteries are revealed within this experience.

This level can only be stopped by outside interference, such as when the belief system of others interferes with our decisions.

Finally, when a person reaches the last level, there's a sense of immortality, because the individual is empowered with the mysteries of life. The person at this point exists as a spirit, not a human, and this is why we apply the word immortality.

Perceptions about past lives may occur, which enhances the potential of the individual to learn more about things that he never studied before in this lifetime, and learn faster than others as well. In this level, the person can see more than just physical bodies. The development of superhuman abilities will start occurring. This is why the definition of all these steps brings enlightenment, the condition of becoming as light.

The best and most common examples of skills acquired in the last stage are premonition and telepathy, which several secret societies, openly admitting it or not, intend to develop in their followers in various degrees. But, interestingly, while many adults suspect that I can read their mind and predict their future, they never believe it, simply because they're told by the media that this isn't possible. It's the children that tend to react to my mental powers rather fast and without doubting them, although ending up always quickly stopped and discredited by their embarrassed parents. Even when I make dogs and cats run to me and stay with me, as if they knew me already and without saying a word, their owners don't suspect anything, although reacting in shock.

There is a mental filter in everyone's mind, and the evidence of it can be exemplified in a sentence I often hear: "Until someone proves it and shows it, I won't believe it".

You have to be very naive, to think that the government of any country will let you know anything that goes against their policies and may even affect them in an international level. Besides, people fear and panic with things they can't understand, labeling higher truths as either demonic or schizophrenic. "It is a predisposition of human nature to consider an unpleasant idea untrue, and then it is easy to find arguments against it" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason, Neurologist and founder of Psychoanalysis).

The need of the human mind to categorize the unknown is such that, while for leaders of many societies I've been categorized as an Indigo or Avatar, former colleagues categorized me as either stupid, diabolic or medium, depending on their level of affinity towards me, and my own family placed me in the schizophrenic category, despite knowing that I've worked for some of the best universities in the world, write books for a living, or the fact that they've never saw me speaking alone not even once. So, indeed, "In the depths of my heart I can't help being convinced that my dear fellow-men, with a few exceptions, are worthless" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

People seem to want answers that I can't provide, because who I am isn't more important than what I know. However, history keeps repeating, as humans still confuse the message with the messenger and prefer to worship instead of becoming responsible for their own life, or judge the message based on their perception of which appearance the messenger should have.

It's actually intriguing to notice that most spiritual people I've met, don't trust what I say, just because I can't heal their illnesses with my hands.

I do know how it works, and because I've been pushed to do it so many times, due to this strong mindset the majority has regarding spirituality, I eventually found myself curing headaches and stomachaches. But I don't think I will ever be able to cure blindness, cancer, and much less raise the dead. And I can't understand why such magical manifestations are still so important to judge the truth.

The war seen today against Christianity, is as significant and natural as those against Paganism and Catholicism once were, because humanity can't evolve based on the idea that one man is more important than another due to the belief that he walked on water, or that a book is more important than others because it's in the hands of politically influential religions. God didn't create, translated or interpreted the Bible in the way it is presented today. And if so many versions of the Bible are available, the misinterpretations have certainly gone out of control. But the same applies to any religion confusing messages of love with instigations for war and discrimination.

Maybe Christ was promoting Buddhism, maybe Buddha wasn't a prophet, maybe the Quran is older than its Prophet, and maybe we shouldn't spend another two thousand years living a lie, just because we fear the truth and the darkness it reveals within us.

80 years ago, most people still believed the earth was flat. When will we realize that our modern way of thinking about reality is squared? The hat used by proud college graduates when finishing their majors proves it already.

Beyond the Law of Attraction

WHAT IF THE LAW OF attraction was being promoted and allowed merely in a way that is supposed to be, so that it could increase the speed of the events in the world and give even more power to the Elite?

If people use the law of attraction to get more money and consume more, the Elite always wins, because the world is designed within this illusion.

The proper use of the law of attraction must be applied to change the system, by understanding how it works, instead of merely replicating some cheap empowering techniques and tricks.

You're more than a spiritual being with the power to change reality. You are part of a world that manifests in the same amount that you give, don't give or refuse to cooperate with. And, you're as powerful as anyone else on earth in both your actions and inactions. "One man is equivalent to all creation; one man is a world in miniature" (Albert Pike, 33rd Freemason). Therefore, "the price of doing the same thing is far higher than the price of change" (Bill Clinton, Skulls & Bones and Bilderberg Society), as "what we have done for ourselves alone dies with us" (Albert Pike).

Either you can't understand it, are unwilling to accept it or to know it, you're still part of this world. And, with or without your consent, you're here as either one of the slaves among the 99% of humans or part of the 1% Elite, either way a cooperative element for those on the top.

This, nevertheless, is just the surface and "being the richest man in the cemetery doesn't matter" (Steve Jobs). As spiritual beings, we experience life as immortals, and that's why love, creativity and helping others bring us so much and immediate joy.

The pure application of the law of attraction is spiritually enlightening, mentally revolutionary, physically energizing and ultimately uplifting, not just in our material world, but also in our whole perception of life.

Within this dynamic, the most powerful application of this law, consists in the will to change mankind positively with our existence, because “what we have done for others and the world remains and is immortal” (Albert Pike, Freemason).

Knowing the Elite

ALTHOUGH MANY INTERPRETATIONS can be applied to describe the Elite, the most suitable is seen in the logo of the freemasons, replicated in many famous brands and in different ways.

This symbol is also very ancient and basically represents the designers of the world. So, the members of the Elite see themselves as conceivers of the paradigm in the reality we experience. They are behind institutions, bureaucracy, educational and training systems, taxes, military operations, banking systems, and all the other mechanisms of the world we trust. Somehow, what is real and normal for most people, including the way they entertain themselves, was manufactured by the Elite.

For the majority in today's world, it's more fun to spend an entire day inside a shopping mall than in a garden, catching sun and smelling flowers. And those that do this, are now often seen as weird or crazy.

The same applies to those that don't have a smartphone, reject living in a city and don't watch movies.

Even the clothes we wear have been designed and pushed to the market by the Elite. A careful look at the symbols in most designs or its purpose will clearly demonstrate it.

The Elite likes this world, its dynamics, colors, prices and order. Whatever seems normal or crazy for most people, is nothing more than the reality that the architects or masons have built for us.

What people in this current society don't know any more, is that reality is whatever you want it to be, even if you can only change yours. You are whoever you want to be, and you can become whoever you wish and dream to become.

Your external reality is constantly reflecting your inner reality, so you can't take enough actions to change yourself until you accept to change. And, you can't change the reality around you without any effort by changing your inner reality.

For the majority, the idea of changing the physical reality seems easier to apply, but they're both correlated within the same structure we call life.

Code 3: If you want to change your life, you must change yourself.

The Potential to Understand

HEART AND MIND ARE connected within our body of energy, even though we've been conditioned to use only our brain and believe that this is the center of thoughts and actions.

Know that the brain is just a tool of your soul, as you're not your brain and you're not inside your brain.

If you believe that all the thoughts inside your brain are yours, then you're easily manipulated and influenced. The reason why, is that your brain captures, just like a radio, frequencies related to your identity, so most of your thoughts are actually perceptions or visual transferences of others' thoughts related to you.

The same applies to music, television and Wi-Fi transmissions, as all these devices interfere with the way we think and process thought. They directly influence our brainwaves frequency (which affect our mood and emotions), and indirectly influence our thoughts, as we think according to what we feel.

Knowledge about how the brain operates is also important to recognize our limitations, fundamentally as left-brain thinkers.

The elite conditioned us to think with the left part of the brain, by showing us images, facts and indoctrinating us to think with logic. So, as art is completely neglected, we tend to think that we can't create, that only a few can be artists.

The fact, however, is that, by not exercising the right part of our brain, we decrease our innate ability to dream.

The potential of our dreams is the motor behind our will, as we can't do what we can't imagine ourselves doing first. By disconnecting us from our imagination, the Power Elite was able to enslave mankind within the reality that they have created and destined for our existence.

At this point, if anyone wishes to become free to change life in a radical form, that person must be willing to rediscover his potential to dream and postulate an unseen reality, but also to create and control his own emotions. “Every man must find out for himself in what particular fashion he can be saved” (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

During this path, reading books like this one may create severe headaches, just like many people that have had conversations with me claimed to feel, as these are the effects of deprogramming.

The irony in this description, is that most people believe that by deprogramming them I’m actually manipulating their thoughts, because they have been conditioned to believe that the reality in which they trust is the truth, as they can easily find comfort and agreement within it, and the opposite leads to isolation and confusion.

“Men are not prisoners of fate, but only prisoners of their own minds” (Franklin D. Roosevelt, Freemason and member of the Loyal Order of Moose). And that’s why “we must pass through the darkness to reach the light” (Albert Pike, Freemason).

This said, we must understand that even grammar obeys specific codes designed by the elite to entrap our cognitive awareness, and this is how language has been evolving rapidly in the past centuries.

You can increase the IQ of anyone by simply teaching an individual to explain the words he uses in a conversation or forcing him to study them, and you’ll be surprised to realize that most people, including Teachers and Professors, can’t explain the meaning of about 90% of the words they use in a daily basis.

This is why the ones that have been deprogrammed will speak and write differently from the norm.

When we use grammar or science to judge others, we’re actually denying ourselves the challenge to deprogram ourselves. And, this is why studying old literature and old languages is a good exercise for the intellect, as words are always supposed to be written in the exact way they have been.

Religious books occult truth once they are interpreted by minds conditioned by the social system imposed by the Elite, and that’s why people can’t understand them on their own and believe only those in a high hierarchy of a religious organization are competent enough to analyze scriptures.

All famous religious organizations in the world share dogma, because none is able to truly understand the codes behind the writings.

Code 4: You understand what you're programmed to understand.

Below as Above & One as All

BEFORE YOU CAN UNDERSTAND the meaning of spiritual power, or even the relation between money and love, you must first understand the conceptualization of each word, what they mean to you and how they interact together in your life.

Nobody on earth refusing one part of this equation can truly understand the combination of all elements of life, or even the ones in which he believes himself.

We've been educated to see a divided world, while parts of this division were purposely kept hidden from us, to make us believe that we can't ever understand life from a different perspective. But know that "millionaires do not use astrology, billionaires do" (J.P. Morgan, Illuminati).

You can't understand spirituality if you don't understand money and you can't understand how the mind works if you refuse to acknowledge the spirit within, as "it is God who gives you the power to create wealth" (Deuteronomy 8:18, in The Bible).

Your capability to answer the questions above will help you in knowing yourself and this exercise provides an effective way to increase your potential to transform reality.

Code 5: Transmutation is proportional to emotional strength.

With this code in mind, you should be "fortunate enough to be neither hesitant nor indecisive" (Guy de Rothschild, Illuminati), because "will is the dynamic soul-force" (Albert Pike, Freemason).

"You aren't weak-willed; you are simply obeying yourself as of yesterday" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

The World within the 5 Senses

THOSE THAT SELECT ONE part of reality while refusing the rest, are neglecting the importance of what they choose to analyze and, in this way, condemning themselves to a never-ending study with unclear results that later they'll accept as the truth and use to say to others: "Look! There's no more truth! We've proven it scientifically".

However, if you prove the inexistence of something, you really prove nothing more than ignorance about it. And, "what luck for rulers that men do not think" (Adolf Hitler, Illuminati).

"An individual must rise above an avid craving for agreement from a humanoid group to get anything decent done" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

Exceptions to this situation come when the inexistence of something arises from facts and reasons that clarify possible illusions and delusions on that same subject. And, that's not the case of science, as all scientific truths come with exceptions that don't explain the rule and can't be explained by it. "Science says the first word on everything, and the last word on nothing" (Victor Hugo, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

If we look at the core of modern science, we have Einstein coming in 1905 with a clear concept about energy: $E=MC^2$.

It says that energy is the resulting combination of mass by the square of the speed of light.

Then, the Quantum Physicians came with exceptions that prove no rule, except the one we make for ourselves: "It's all true; they're just different levels of truth" (John Hagelin, Physicist).

As a conclusion, we can't really conceptualize the movement of energy without first understanding conscience, because at the "deepest sub-level of our reality, you and I are literally one" (John Hagelin, Physicist).

Only with this knowledge in hand can the reader proceed to the comprehension of how to combine the different factors interfering in the perception of self, in order to get practical results regarding money, unlimited wealth or any other personal desire.

It's also with the understanding of how to operate conscience, that you reach the blocks that may be stopping you from achieving what you want, as nothing is as clear as it seems. "Except our own thoughts, there is nothing absolutely in our power" (René Descartes, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

"In life and in business, if you want to go fast, go alone; if you want to go far, go together" (Bill Gates, Bilderberg Group), but remember that "your potentialities are a great deal better than anyone ever permitted you to believe" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

The Power Within

IT WOULD BE FOOLISH to refuse the combination of the scientific knowledge available or discard it when studying spirituality.

Following this attitude, we can say that Einstein, Quantum Physicians and Religious Leaders are all correct. There's no limit to the amount of energy that a human being can use, being the only rule none to some amount, as we're either dead or alive. But, how alive can a person be?

When you're very happy and in love with something or someone, as opposite to feeling depressive and sad, in which you feel like doing nothing or wanting to die, your energy level is clearly higher.

Code 6: Happiness increases energy.

On the other hand, "if a person thinks he can be happy without making those around him happy, he's crazy" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

"We have all the light we need; we just need to put it in practice (Albert Pike, Freemason) by helping others. That's how the power of a group multiplies individual potential. Unus pro omnibus, omnes pro uno or "one for all and all for one (Freemasons Motto), instead of competition and selfishness, must guide our attitudes in life and with others, because "united we stand, divided we fall" (Aesop, Greek slave and author).

"When the Great Creator breathed into man the breath of life, He included a number of strengths and a great many weaknesses; one of the strengths He imparted to man was the ability to comprehend that in union there is strength" (Norman Buecker, Freemason). Within this strength, "you can use very light energy to accomplish enormous things. It's only with a very heavy energy that you can't accomplish a doggone thing" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

This "consciousness is the ground of all being" (Amit Goswami, Quantum Physicist), so the acknowledgement of the purest and strongest energy derives from the recognition of love, because “infinite love is the only truth; everything else is illusion” (David Icke).

Code 7: Conscience directs energy.

“Everybody is a genius. But if you judge a fish by its ability to climb a tree it will live its whole life believing that it is stupid” (Albert Einstein, Physicist).

The Multiverse Portal

TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION the theoretical principle of Einstein regarding energy, we know that it can only be increased if you put more mass and light-speed into it, which in other words means that, if you take action on what you want with the right attitude, you can increase your energy and change your personal reality faster.

“We exist in a multiverse of universes” (Michio Kaku, Physicist), so “there’s no reason to suspect that our universe may be one of many, a single bubble in a huge bubble bath of other universes” (Brian Greene, Physicist).

This is why “time is an illusion” (Albert Einstein, Physicist) as “each one of us receives the truth and expresses it from within, that is to say, according to one’s own circumstances” (Pope Francis, Jesuit Order).

Code 8: Time and space are affected by conscience and energy.

The most efficient action in life is a leap of faith, a total belief in the truth within. There’s no such thing as fiction or imagination, as they’re merely non-fiction manifestations in the wrong parallel universe.

We attract a new reality as much as we push ourselves to accept it, and “those that have seen the boundary between the real and unreal, have acquired all knowledge” (Bhagavad Gita 5:11).

If the ‘mass’ we put into life’s energy consists in an action that goes against our values and belief system, against our own mind, we change our personal reality beyond our expectations, and beyond the expectations of our group of belonging, as if we were crossing between worlds. And, people will abandon us, as if we weren’t part of their world anymore, especially the ones that have always intimately opposed our transformations or discredited them. But you must “not pay attention to the fact that the entire world is continuously chasing pleasures while only a few ascend to the Creator” (Rosh Hashanah, in The Talmud).

The amount of time needed to change reality is relative to the capability of the individual to accept such change. This is why we tend to believe that our actions determine our results, even though there isn't a direct relation between the two elements, but rather indirect. "All our knowledge is the offspring of our perceptions" (Leonardo Da Vinci, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

It is more correct to say that our actions determine our knowledge about the truth and the possibilities that such personal truth encompasses, as, within this expansion of consciousness, we alter the manifestation of our existence into a world that better suits our new inner reality. In other words, "God desires, man dreams, and work is done" (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Your consciousness is like a compass, your mind as a rock and your spirit is the mason of reality. "Do not neglect your gift. Use it and you will prosper" (Timothy 4:14, in The Bible).

Code 9: An expanded action increases success.

There's a reason for self-control to increase when we expand our influence and change our body to distinct and distant environments. Personal energy is correlated with consciousness, which is shaped through different experiences in life.

The more you do, the more you can see, because "the degree of simplicity is proportional to the degree of confront; knowledge is observation and is given to those who would look" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

Code 10: Doing leads to knowing.

If you want to dramatically change the results in your life, you must be willing to abandon the comfort of the life you currently know and accept. "Ordinary morality is only for ordinary people" (Aleister Crowley, Grandmaster of the Ordo Templi Orientis and member of the United Order of the Golden Cross).

The Dynamic Energy of Life

ORDINARY LIGHT TRAVELS at the speed of 186,282 miles per second, but the research team of Lene Hau, a Professor of physics at Harvard, who in 1999 was able to slow light down to 38 miles per hour, managed to trap light in a cloud of sodium atoms super-cooled to near 'absolute zero'. And, by looking around you, it's easy to believe that everyone is operating at a different speed.

In other words, light and energy are both relative and manifest in different patterns. And, this is why Einstein said: "For the rest of my life I will reflect on what light is".

Code 11: A higher level of energy increases speed.

We can control the light within us, and we can apply it differently, because "if a body releases the energy in the form of radiation, its mass is decreased" (Albert Einstein, Physicist).

Pragmatically speaking, once we start releasing our energy, in the form of actions, our mass decreases, because, according to Quantum physicists, mass is just another name for energy. This is why people that do sports tend to feel 'lighter' and more 'energetic' as both literally increase in them, just like people that are too afraid to change themselves, or even move their bodies, tend to become heavier, by literally consuming more energy in the form of foods high in carbohydrates and by accumulating persistent thoughts.

People with a high mass, walk slowly and make public sits feel like they were heated in an oven, while individuals with light mass, or more spiritual, walk as lightly and fast as unperceived ghosts, and eat much less than the common being.

Surely, there are also attitudes and habits that help decrease the mass of our body, and they include both physical and mental exercises, namely, meditation, Yoga, a vegetarian diet, drinking plenty of water during the day, oxygenating the body with some form of physical activity and being in direct contact with nature, touching the ground with our feet by being barefooted or with the whole body, when laying down.

The Power Elite knows this, so the decrease of conscience in society has been pushed through the promotion of shopping malls, fast-foods (nearly all composed of meat and sugar) and the idea that sunshine is bad or that nature is dangerous.

Ultimately, we must take actions in reorganizing our life according to our emotional response, instead of forcing ourselves to accept things that we're resisting spiritually. "The liberty of the individual is no gift of civilization. It was greatest before there was any civilization" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

We must be conscious of ourselves with what we do as, by accepting what we actually want to refuse, we decrease consciousness. Only "those that combine action with meditation, cross the sea of death to the land of immortality" (Upanishads, 4:23).

Code 12: Conscious actions attract dreams.

To understand conscience, energy, time and relativity, we can take this simple example given by Einstein: "A man sits with a pretty girl for an hour, it seems like a minute. He sits on a hot stove for a minute, and it's longer than any hour. That's relativity".

In the same way, when looking at our past, and to what he didn't have before and now do, we can realize that we have achieved what was most significant for us, while leaving behind and quitting what didn't seem to match our personal beliefs. We have definitely created our present reality based on past beliefs, even if our ignorance and fears led us to misery.

What would happen if we had no doubts but the confidence of a wise individual? "I came, I saw, I conquered", said Julius Caesar, a man with no doubt about what he wanted.

Code 13: Intentions are powerful.

The Meaning of Life

THE MORE YOU FOCUS on something you want with action, the more likely you are to get it. This is the meaning of life. “Full responsibility is not fault; it is recognition of being cause”; and the supreme test for a person “is not only making things go right, but carrying on after they haven’t” (Ron Hubbard, Scientology). “An intelligent hell would be better than a stupid paradise” (Victor Hugo, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Focusing attention in acquiring wealth while visualizing it, combined with actions related to having it, such as recognizing what we need to learn about it, attracts wealth. So, “Press on! A better fate awaits thee” (Victor Hugo, Rosicrucian Fellowship). “If you sinful people know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your heavenly Father give good gifts to those who ask him” (Matthew 7:11, in The Bible)

The formula is simple and has been described in many ancient books, but most people can’t see it because they can’t understand it. “That man is richer than me by 900 million dollars, because at least he has no debt”, said billionaire Donald Trump while pointing at a beggar.

All secret societies in the world are based in the same gnostic principles, which can be found inside many ancient religious traditions. They are the basis of Hinduism, Buddhism, Freemasonry and Scientology, among many others, but not necessarily related to any of them.

The fact is that “the substance of every object is the soul. In the soul, subject and object are one” (The Yoga of Knowledge and Action 7:31), therefore, “all visible things arise from that which is invisible (Bhagavad Gita 6:2).

Most people can’t obtain wealth because they tend to follow a mental program telling them that they should always put energy in getting money with actions and attention on known paths to acquire wealth. They follow what they know and what they see, and then they're surprised to fail, and blame themselves for such failure.

"A lie told often enough becomes the truth" (Vladimir Lenin, Illuminati and Freemason) and "illusions commend themselves to us because they save us pain and allow us to enjoy pleasure instead" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason). But "most people do not really want freedom, because freedom involves responsibility, and most people are frightened of responsibility" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

The Elite took advantage of these facts when creating paths and barriers to both suppress originality and favor equality within their system, when they created the life labyrinth for the masses. Eventually, they even came to the conclusion that Communism and Socialism are more efficient to control the world than Fascism.

Despite the monstrous crimes perpetrated by the Chinese Communist Party since the time of Mao Zedong to our present days, David Rockefeller (Illuminati and member of the Knights of Malta, Bilderberg Group and Trilateral Commission) said that "whatever the price of the Chinese Revolution, it was obviously succeeded not only in producing more efficient and dedicated administration, but also in fostering high moral and community purpose. The Social experiment in China under Chairman Mao's leadership is one of the most important and successful in human history".

What this belief tells us is that, just like with Chinese history, many bright individuals that may oppose the violent and suppressive imposing changes of a few will receive the same fate. "Countless people will hate the new world order and will die protesting against it" (H. G. Wells, Freemason).

Such world cannot allow any Divine interference. In fact, art, the ultimate manifestation of independent and inspiring ideas, is being suppressed, while technological, biological, chemical and industrial engineering are favored.

In between, we have business ideas that promote or support the same system in different ways, namely in the field of art, just like we have scientists and doctors challenging scientific dogmas and ending up either fired, killed or with revoked licenses. “And yet no war has been declared, no borders have been crossed by marching troops, no missiles have been fired” (John F. Kennedy, Illuminati and member of the Knights of Columbus).

The war has begun, we just haven’t seen it. “And there is very grave danger that an announced need for increased security will be seized upon by those anxious to expand its meaning to the very limits of official censorship and concealment” (John F. Kennedy).

Why Most People Fail

THE DIFFICULTY IN SUCCEEDING in life, isn't as much related to the rules imposed by the Power Elite, as it is related to how the majority of the society has learned to accept those rules. "An ignorant people is the blind instrument of its own destruction" (Simón Bolívar, Freemason).

Inside such reality, it's an illusion to think that a person can succeed by following the same principles, such as working harder, accumulating more jobs or obtaining a higher salary. "Work ends up dehumanizing people" (Pope Francis, Jesuit Order).

The world is designed in such a unique paradigm that "there is only one way you will ever have a future: make one!" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

The reason why you and others won't, is related to the fact that the reality designed by the Power Elite is actually a prison made to enslave us, and we only start realizing it once we try to move out of it and start facing ridicule and rejection. Basically, "you can't build a reputation on what you are going to do" (Henry Ford, Loyal Order of Moose).

"The greatest prison that people live in is the fear of what other people think" (David Icke). So, the only way to quickly succeed and stand above common agreements, consists in following an independent idea.

"Courage could be summed up in: one, being willing to cause something, and two, going ahead to achieve the effect one has postulated against any and all odds" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology). "Do what thou wilt... the whole of the law; love is the law, love under will" (Aleister Crowley, Order of Oriental Templars).

Even Hitler (Illuminati) said: "I can fight only for something that I love, love only what I respect, and respect only what I at least know".

In reverse, his principle states that you must know yourself to respect yourself, and only then can you love yourself, and it's with self-love that you'll feel motivated to fight for your dreams. So, you must "never forget that the most powerful force on earth is love" (Nelson A. Rockefeller, Knights of Pythias).

Code 14: You are your greatest project.

Most people don't know who they are, because the system did an excellent job in erasing their spiritual identity. And that's how their motivation for survival, as it was naturally intended by their spirit at birth, was suppressed for life.

A bird born in a cage won't know the meaning of freedom and won't runaway when his master forgets to close him inside. The same applies to humans born in a mental prison, and the Power Elites know it. There's an "extraordinary control over human behavior" as the human mind "contemplates itself not from within but from without" (Pavlov, Skulls & Bones), and "education is what survives when what has been learned has been forgotten" (B.F. Skinner, Skulls & Bones).

The correct word here, however, is "indoctrination", and not "education", as ideas will naturally come flowing abundantly into our mind when we are inspired by a dream that uplifts our heart. In fact, "a wise man will make more opportunities than he finds" (Francis Bacon, Freemason and Rosicrucian Grand Master).

"Your greatest ability is getting an idea" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology), but it's pursuing it with efforts to manifest it that will change your soul. These changes open invisible gates to a new reality in which you enter with decisions.

The gates to new realities are presented to us through opportunities, which emerge from our physical efforts. So, "think thousand times before taking a decision but, after taking that decision, never turn back even if you get thousand difficulties" (Adolf Hitler, Illuminati).

Code 15: If you believe, you'll find the way.

A closer look at society shows that, truly speaking, most people aren't willing to change their life. They waste energy in efforts that aren't directed to their purpose, and aren't willing to sacrifice their time, risk failure, be responsible for their results, confront their lack of knowledge, study, read and learn. And, this is the real reason why they abandon their dreams.

99% of the world population, nearly 7 billion people, put their attention on television, debts and needs. They trust a world that was designed to imprison them. As a consequence, "if you want a vision of the future, imagine a boot stamping on a human face, forever" (George Orwell, Freemason).

The majority is inactive and rejects responsibility for their fate with suppressive beliefs created by themselves, but predicted by the Power Elite, such as "this is not for me", "I can't do it", "I didn't study it", "I'm not smart enough", "I can't go very far", "I was never good", "I never made it before", "nobody in my family can do it", "I don't have the money to do it", "nobody helps me", "nobody supports me", "nobody believes in me", "I'm lazy", "I have to work harder", "maybe after a few years I can do it", etc.

There are actually specific phrases showing how deep in the massive brainwashing individuals are, such as "I'm working hard enough now, so that one day I might have the freedom I want", "I will do it one day, but now I have other priorities", or, "I need to study this and that first, and before doing it".

Most people are so lost, that they follow the exact opposite path of what they should be doing. That's why "he who works all day, has no time to make money" (John Rockefeller, Illuminati).

Code 16: The conceptualization of reality is an expression of conscience.

The Independent Identity

YOUR IDENTITY IF BUILT out of “is” and “isn’t”, and, somehow, you’ve attracted to your life everything that you believe that “is”, while pushing away what you believe that “isn’t”. But “we can never forget that everything that Adolf Hitler did in Germany was legal and everything the Hungarian freedom fighters did in Hungary was illegal” (Martin Luther King, Jr.).

“We are ruled, though it may be difficult to imagine, by a small dynastic power structure,... controlling the financial system,... the political system, the educational system,... creating think tanks and other institutions which shape and change the course of society and modern human history” (Andrew Gavin Marshall). That being the case, in order to rebuild your reality, you need to first understand how you are operating it, directly and indirectly, as your personality is also a result of your experiences and reinforced by them. In other words, “if you want to live a life, get prepared for death” (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

You need to know who you really are and how you’re divided into several parts that interact between themselves, while allowing such awakening to naturally eliminate what’s not within your true identity. “Freedom is the possibility of isolation. You are free if you can withdraw from people, not having to seek them out for the sake of money, company, love, glory or curiosity, none of which can thrive in silence and solitude” (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Know that each person tends to focus more in one of the parts of the original identity by discarding the others, which leads into having a more spiritual or material life, with more problems in one area in particular, while having success in some other.

This happens because some areas are closer to each other in their relation to our personality. And that’s why, individuals that put focus in the negative manifestations of their life, tend to behave and talk with a negative attitude, while being procrastinators of their own dreams.

These individuals affect our reactions to our own reality, reason why we should be careful when considering their perspectives of the world.

Code 17: An advice from a negative person is a negative advice.

“The art of leadership is saying no, not saying yes. It is very easy to say yes” (Tony Blair, 33rd degree Freemason), so you must learn to reject negative influences, if you want to protect your personal beliefs. “There is little success where there is little laughter” (Andrew Carnegie, Illuminati).

Code 18: Inspiring people are accomplished.

The Rules of Wealth

YOUR INSPIRATION AND accomplishments derive from the acknowledgement that spirituality is correlated to the material world, including money. So, if you wish to attract good and profitable ideas, you must understand the role of spirituality in the physical world.

“Actually, money is the god of our time, and Rothschild is his prophet” (Heinrich Heine, Freemason), so “the secret to success is to own nothing, but control everything” (Nelson Rockefeller, Illuminati).

The opposite path is an illusion, created to imprison the masses and enrich the Power Elite.

To succeed in creating wealth, you must learn to control the mechanics of profit and understand the laws of wealth, rather than focusing in accumulating paper-money. “If you want to succeed, you should strike out on new paths, rather than travel the worn paths of accepted success” (John D. Rockefeller, Illuminati).

Those, striving in the delusional section of this paradigm, live in inner struggle and waste too much energy in trying to survive, while erroneously attributing their lack of success to individuals that have it or the lack of competitive advantage in society.

Supreme wisdom about the physical world, can only come by applying our studies and development about spirituality and life purpose. “Wealth and Power, luxury and honor, are the waves on the ocean of the world. God’s name alone can carry you to the other side, and show you the path up the mountain” (Guru Nanak, Founder of Sikhism). And, if you want to know God and your life purpose, know that “where the heart runs, the mind chases; where God goes, the heart follows” (Allama Prabhu, Founder of Lingaytism).

Code 19: The road to success is enlightened with joy.

God is where your joy manifests, but “the path of joy is invisible to those who never meditate and who are deluded by pleasure” (Katha Upanishad), because “the world is a revelation of Him, its existence a show of His. He is in His work” (Albert Pike, Freemason).

Who is God

THE TWO PILLARS IN Freemasonry are a representation of the two pillars of the Temple of Solomon, also known to the Knights Templar of the Scotland rite, as can be seen in their chapels. But, what only highly ranked members of these orders know, is that these two pillars represent their own interpretation of God, one being sound and, the other, light.

To be more precise, God is light and sound, which in scientific terms means energy and frequencies.

“Everything in life is vibration” (Albert Einstein, Physicist). And, “this supreme living conscience or ‘mind of god’, which Einstein wrote eloquently about, is cosmic music resonating throughout hyperspace” (Michio Kaku, Physicist).

The Buddhist mediation under the syllable Om unifies a human being under God’s conscience, and that’s why Buddhists don’t pray or worship. But this type of meditation is much older than that. Nearly four thousand years ago, it was written in the Vedic scriptures that “speech and breath combine to form Aum. The syllable Aum is the call to knowledge. All words come from the syllable Aum. The syllable Aum is the whole universe; Aum is the truth of the whole universe” (Chandogya Upanishad 1:1).

We must “mediate on the beautiful light of God” in order to “stimulate our thoughts” (Rig Veda 3:62), because “as human beings we have two states of consciousness: one is this world, and the other is the world beyond (Brihadaranyaka Upanishad 4:3), and “the Creator created the universe by meditating in tranquility (Chandogya Upanishad 2:23).

Even monotheistic and more recent religious societies, apparently opposing this belief, aren’t actually far from it, with their description of God as “the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End... Who is and who was and who is to come” (Revelation 1:8, in The Bible).

However, although we can understand the purpose of life by connecting to the Supreme Conscience, we can't understand the Conscience behind it from our manifested realm. And this isn't possible with science as well, because "as physicists are made of atoms, a physicist is an attempt by an atom to understand itself" (Michio Kaku, Physicist).

This is the reason why secret societies give so much emphasis to self-control, determinism and emotions, in their rituals and practices, as well as promotions and the selection of individuals for especial roles. They know that only those who acknowledge this force behind life, the all-seeing eye, can truly master the manifestations within their reach of influence, and these are the real-life architects, the true masons.

The most powerful individuals in the world, are the ones that can control the manifestation of God within, and, in doing so, develop superhuman abilities, such as mind reading and mind control, but most importantly, apply control over the manifestations in the physical world, namely, the ones that can cause a deeper effect within the known reality.

The leaders of the most powerful secret societies know this, and that's why they allow the masses to follow schizophrenic religions based on historical reconstructed lies and worship imagined deities, while sending infiltrating members to many religious groups, for the purpose of changing them, monitor their activities and make them gradually depart from the truth. This is how they conceal the truth from the public, as "the religion of the many must be more incorrect than that of the refined and reflective few" (Albert Pike, Freemason).

There are Freemasons that founded famous religions with the same purpose. Among them, we have Charles Taze Russell (33rd degree Freemason and founder of the Jehovah Witnesses Society), Joseph Smith (33rd degree Freemason and founder of Mormonism), Albert Pike (33rd degree Freemason and founder of the Ku Klux Klan), Rael (33rd degree Freemason and founder of Raelism), and many others.

Among their strategies, disguising God as the Devil and good as evil were the most successful mind programming procedures.

Harmony in Life

THE POWER ELITE KNOWS that, if you fail in one part of the life structure, you suffer the consequences of the lack of balance and harmony.

Problems about love tend to come to proud people, arrogant about their achievements, while problems regarding money tend to come to people that believe that happiness isn't interdependent from material needs. But happiness is wealth, and wealth is conscience about truth in abundance. "Happiness is not being pained in body or troubled in mind" (Thomas Jefferson, Illuminati and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship). In fact, "The Lord takes pleasure in the prosperity of his servant" (Psalms 35:27, in The Bible).

Code 20: Truth leads to wealth.

This conscience is acquired through the realization that life is a cycle of giving and receiving, from which we can only receive from what we produce to others. "There's only one purpose for which a man should acquire wealth beyond the needs of his family: to help others" (Valluvar, Hinduism).

Conscience about the world is demonstrated when a businessman is trying to find what the world needs and more than what he wants. But this conscience is also demonstrated when you're trying to find what you can give to others, and more than what you want to do for them.

We often become frustrated when realizing that our purposes are selfish, but this acknowledgement can only become evident throughout the rejection of our efforts, from which we're forced to rethink our intentions and analyze our motives. Indeed, "an understanding of economics is a bold step forward toward total freedom in a society" (L. Ron Hubbard, Founder of Scientology).

It is here, and at this point that, enlightenment regarding our life purpose, can manifest itself and bring us the desired outcome through new inspiring ideas.

Code 21: Giving develops the conscience of purpose.

This code is applied inside the Power Elite to strengthen and expand the range of influence of its members in society. And, this is how they carefully place them in key positions, as bankers, politicians, judges, etc. "The things that are done in the name of 'economic necessity' would shame Satan. For they are done by the selfish few to deny the many" (L. Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

"In politics nothing is accidental. If something happens, be assured it was planned this way" (Franklin Roosevelt, Freemason).

The mentioned belief, is so effective within the Power Elite, that even Hitler convinced himself of being doing something spiritual and said: "Who says I am not under the special protection of God?"

"Men who know are secure; Men who don't know believe in luck" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology), because only "the truth will set you free" (John 8:32, in The Bible). This truth is conscious purpose, and the purpose of giving is what attracts wealth.

The Power Elite grows in power, while the rest of the world keeps impoverishing, because they work as a group, a close community of very influential individuals feeding each other, and that's how their wealth multiplies over the centuries. "Economics easily evolved into the science of making people miserable" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

Redefining Important Concepts

ONE OF THE BIGGEST traps of the Power Elite exists within our understanding of certain common concepts, due to the way they are promoted to mislead us from the correct interpretation. Therefore, in this chapter we'll look at the most important, in order to further understand how they connect in our reality.

Spirit – It's your true self, who you are as a spirit, your true identity;

Soul - The conscience of your identity, the ethereal body that can experience transmutation;

Identity - What you understand, know and accept, regarding your purpose in life. It's always related to your physical world;

Life - What you believe within your mind, your perception of truth;

Mind - The multi-sensory construct of your present existence, with influences from past lives and the programming you've received from education, family, culture and experience;

Experience - The dynamic interaction between self and the world, often filtered and determined by the mind;

Interaction - The constant balance and reorganization of energy, with our actions, reactions, thoughts and decisions, in a dynamic often determined by karma in conjunction with our spirit;

Energy - What is and has always been, in a combination of different spectrums of manifestation or frequencies, and distinguished by sound;

What is and has always been – Conscious Movement;

Conscious Movement – It can be and has been interpreted as God, God's purpose, God's conscience, Supreme Intelligence, Supreme Conscience, Divine Force, Cosmic Energy, etc.

God's Purpose – It's within you, who you are and your life purpose, and it is love, manifested in different ways;

Love – The foundation, the mechanism and the conductor of life.

Life – The manifestation of what exists in the material world, including your physical body;

Manifestation – the effect of conscience in existence, including everything that we attract;

Attraction - The law you operate with, consciously or unconsciously, either as a vehicle of God or a pawn in the interests of others, visible and invisible;

Conscious and Subconscious – It's the difference between control and lack of control, good and evil, inspired and influenced action, happiness and sadness;

Good and Evil – A manifested representation of two paths felt within the duality of our dimensional existence;

What you feel – Truth;

Truth – You as a pure being, because the path of life is a purification of the spirit in a material world. Seeking the truth and becoming enlightened, or pure, is exactly the same thing within the interaction between the inner and outer reality. And this is why nobody can reach the truth by simply meditating, learning or studying, or trying to understand the world and life from a physical perspective, as the truth can only be reached through the combination of these elements.

"There is no short stop on the road to truth. That is the only track that you have to go all the way on. Once you have put your feet upon that road, you have to walk to its end. Otherwise, all manner of difficulties and upsets will beset you" (L. Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

Psychiatry & Psychology

THE BIGGEST LIE IN our modern world came from the founders of psychiatry, famous members of secret societies and pawns of the Power Elite, who are now “masters of popular psychology and know better than anyone else how they will have to handle certain nations and races” (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

This lie tells us that we are our mind, we are what we think and, as such, our emotions are out of control because we are merely animals acting on impulses, from which sex is the most important and eating is the second most important.

The lie continues, by stating that demonstrations of happiness, or mental illnesses, are the result of either the satisfaction, or suppression, of these impulses.

The deception goes as deep as the name of this science, which is a combination of two words: soul and medical healing.

Psychiatry, however, doesn't heal the soul, because it denies the existence of a soul. “Love and work, work and love, that's all there is”, said Sigmund Freud (Freemason), because the main purpose of Psychiatry and Psychology, among many other approved sciences of the mind, is to analyze thought and behavior, not soul.

The real intention behind the foundation of these fields of study, is the analysis of observable behaviors and the prediction of human reactions, a starting point for the application of mind control strategies and covert operations, which is a work done by both governmental and non-governmental agencies, using what is known about thinking patterns to fulfill a global agenda.

As for what concerns the common citizen, he assumes that his thoughts come from his soul, when in fact thoughts are merely filtered manifestations of the soul, rationalized deductions and interpretations about reality.

This leads people to assume that logic is outside the spirit, and interdependent with what is defined as rational in scientific terms, leaving the psychiatrist with authority to redefine attitudes, influence behaviors and suppress the manifestation of conscience.

In other words, psychiatry doesn't heal, it controls, and it doesn't deal with the soul, but with the brain. It is the ultimate weapon against spiritual conscience, when the educational system and the social structure seem to fail in producing functional slaves.

Drugs are popular among psychiatrists because there's nothing else in their procedures that can change behaviors so effectively and rapidly, and without spiritual interference.

The spirit is sensitive and resists the unnatural, reason why people end up accepting the drugs, as "when one does not have what one wants, one must want what one has" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

Psychiatric drugs, and the toxins they include, diminish the potential of the brain, detach the influence of the spirit over the mind, and produce a kind of zombie, a non-thinker. And this is what the Power Elite wants to do to everyone resisting their system, even if the symptom that something is terribly wrong comes in the form of a harmless depression.

If we want to see a bunch of humans with an enslaved mentality, numb and behaving like zombies, suppressing depression, fear and anger, we merely have to look at the results of the favorite political system of the Power Elite: Communism, which David Rockefeller (Illuminati) claimed to have succeeded in "fostering high moral and community of purpose".

Spiritual Awakening and Life Purpose

WHATEVER YOU WISH FOR your life, it will be first felt in your heart, which is the voice of your spirit. “The atoms of the chemical and life ethers gathered around the nuclear seed atom located in the solar plexus are shaped like prisms” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

“The heart is more powerful than the brain. The heart is about 100 thousand times stronger electrically and up to 5 thousand times stronger magnetically than the brain” (Gregg Braden). Therefore, the spirit uses the heart as a vehicle for the manifestation of emotions, which reflect what is known as spiritual awareness.

This spiritual awareness, or conscience of self, affects the soul, which is our perception of self, the perception of our identity and personality, and is related to whom we are in the physical world.

This is why an awakening changes our habits, our plans in life, our decisions and our needs. But it also changes our personality, which is merely an identity built between our perception of self (soul) and the physical world.

The same applies in the inverse way, when we travel, when we meet people that change us, when we experience disappointment and frustration, or joy, as in this case the physical world affects the perception of self, affecting the personality as a result.

There is a correlation between the physical and spiritual world, but only attachment to the physical world causes emotional suffering. “We never love anyone. What we love is the idea we have of someone. It’s our own concept – our own selves – that we love” (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 22: The path to wealth is also the path to our spiritual identity.

The conscience of self, your spiritual awareness, is a combination of who you are with who you think you are, and demands interaction between these two elements. But this combination is often disruptive and unclear due to a social programming blocking it.

This social programming operates only in our mind, although certain chemicals in our water, food and drugs, may affect our ability to resist it.

The mind is the fundamental barrier stopping us from acquiring everything we wish in life. And, in fact, you don't really know what you want until you have it and feel it. "Were we as we should be, We wouldn't need any illusions" (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

This happens in such a way because you need to understand that the meaning of life is beyond wealth, power and reputation. You can have it all, but only what matches your life purpose on earth really matters. "We cannot command Nature except by obeying her" (Sir Francis Bacon, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

A strong feeling of happiness and a strong instinct to do what's right will come to your life, when you're within your purpose and God's purpose for you. And, having it, is to be truly accomplished, as life isn't about where you want to go but rather where you are at the moment. "Blessed are those who entrust their lives to no one" (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 23: Awareness attracts success.

In order to find what really accomplishes you, you must do God's work and give to the world what it needs in the way you were meant to act with your life on earth.

Your actions will return back to you the meaning they represent through your heart, because God truly wishes "above all things that you prosper and be in good health, even as your soul prospers" (John 3:2, in The Bible), as "the poor is hated even by his neighbors; but the rich has many friends" (Proverbs 14:20, in The Bible). Thus, you "should remember the Lord your God, for it is He that gives the power to make wealth" (Deuteronomy 8:18, in The Bible).

Code 24: Truth is the ability to be honest.

If you feel good, it must be good, and if you feel bad, it must be bad. So, be conscious of your actions and how they affect others, as well as your life, because a lie will give you momentary joy, but the truth will feed you with everlasting happiness. And remember that, “success isn’t immediate. Mistakes are needed to learn about what is useful or not. This is how purification occurs. After many attempts towards preparing a “good cake”, exit presents itself abruptly, in a certain moment. The gnostic light takes us as students, and... by persisting in our efforts, we suddenly get an answer to that quest” (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

The Law of Creation

WHEN YOU WANT TO ATTRACT something into your life, you first need to envision it in your mind. The emotions attached to your vision will tell you if such dream is for you, and your thoughts will either help you or not, as they're related to the meaning of your vision, and influenced by the surrounding belief system, namely, friends and relatives.

This life-force surrounding you, has a magnetic field that has been influencing your reality, so you won't be able to change it without an emotional turmoil and challenges in the physical world, most of them in the form of difficult life decisions.

"When someone searching for a new life connects in a way that is progressively more pure towards his most desirable goal, reaches a moment in which a storm begins, stays and doesn't vanish. The radiations of the new magnetic field won't abandon him. They are continually around him, inside him and assume the direction of his life. Once here, we must deal with two magnetic fields" (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

Once your vision and your emotions are in tune with each other, only your mental programming can stop their flow of energy from expanding and causing an effect that allows a portal to open for you to leap into a new world, a new theatre of life, a new temple of God. When this happens, "the possibilities are present. Therefore, the entrance to this temple can be described as the receiving of an invitation" (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

If you are able to break free from your mind programming, namely, what you think you are, whom you think you are and what you think you must be or can become, your soul expands in power. "The material sphere is the field of life of the personality", so you should "deepen your insight as much as possible, in order that you may thoroughly realize why the dialectical hierarchy is engaged in the execution of their scheme for developing a world-wide theocratic fascism” (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

Your awareness, of what and who is suppressing the manifestation of your true self, is the first barrier to overcome, before the magnetic storm in your reality opens a new portal of possibilities and your level of confidence determines the possibly or not of an entrance.

This “self-confidence is itself self-determinism. It is one’s belief in one’s ability to determine his own causes. There is but one security and that is the security of self-confidence” (L. Ron Hubbard, Founder of Scientology).

Your spirit is connected to the field of energy that penetrates visible things, always was and will be, and that’s why you can bring into your reality everything you dream. “All entities living in the material sphere and, consequently, making use of a material body, generate earthly light force, which means that they transform the ethers which they themselves receive from the cosmic regions surrounding us” (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

Code 25: We are programmed to succeed from birth, but we deprogram ourselves with beliefs.

The Challenges of Life

GOD, OR THE SUPREME Conscience, needs to know your heart and, in order to do so, He puts challenges in your magnetic field of energy, to see how you react to them and prove yourself worthy of accomplishing the alchemical transmutation of your reality.

These challenges allow a better understanding of your spiritual nature, as a student of life, “for the purpose of gnosis is to lead its pupils straight out of the ‘House of Bondage’ of dialectics, in the full sense of the word, and introduce them into the life order, which is of Christ” (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

You were born to be what you wish, as life is only about learning and changing. “In the Universe there are certain laws which provide regularity and are called radiation laws... The radiation laws regulate the living conditions of all entities... from which nothing and no one can escape. Everyone must submit himself to these radiation laws, which govern the entire Universe” (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum), and we do it by putting “ourselves in a favorable position to the law of attraction, a receptive state where we may receive a new downpouring of the Spirit of Love and Light, and which thus brings us nearer to our adored ideal” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

During this stage, we must learn to respect those that have or know what we don’t, and learn from them, knowing that they can guide our conscience.

Code 26: We must be positive towards what we wish to accomplish and those we admire.

When learning to follow these laws, without arrogance, jealousy, envy or greed, you’ll be able to travel your way and “reach the aim of the path, without any hindrance, without any obstacle” (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum).

To become worthy, the spiritual law will challenge you through specific steps. First, you'll attract others that have what you want, then you attract people that offer opportunities for you to learn about it, and finally you receive the desired gift according to your nature.

Along this path, "we must, above all, learn to understand in what way we can positively react to these radiations" (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum). This is to say, don't envy or hate those that have what you want. Respect them and love them as human beings and learn to do it well and honestly. And, when you get an offer, answer 'yes', and 'thank you', act on it, do what you need to do, to have it and achieve it. But, refuse what doesn't match what you want or you'll suffer the pain of delusion of the material world and learn this lesson in a hard way.

The Supreme Conscience "issues radiations which make us walk a long, long way of experiences and which, ultimately, bring us into contact with various powers and possibilities" (Jan Van Rijckenborgh, Lectorium Rosicrucianum), that if answered and acted upon with a loving, faithful and grateful heart, will allow a transfiguration within, making us more spiritual, and in the material world, making it more suitable for our new and uplifted spiritual nature.

Miracles happen when you set yourself free from the boundaries of the delusional material world and the sense of personality that comes with it. It's when you dream with love and faith, while filling your needs with actions, namely, by learning about what you lack, loving what you fear and appreciating what you have, that you reach another kingdom in this earth.

Code 27: The light guides those that accept it with faith.

The Miracles of Life

A FEW HUNDRED YEARS ago, nobody believed humans could fly, but “if we all worked on the assumption that what is accepted as true is really true, there would be little hope of advance” (Orville Wright, Freemason & one of the inventors of the first airplane).

If Henry Ford “had asked people what they wanted, they would have said ‘faster horses’” (Henry Ford, Loyal Order of Moose). And nowadays, if you ask people a similar question about flying, many will give the same type of answer, as, based on the social paradigm, they’ll answer “you can only fly inside an airplane”.

However, that’s not exactly true, as you can fly in many different ways, such as wing-suit, hang-gliding and paragliding. And you can even experience the freedom of flying for a few seconds, without any material attached to you, by simply jumping from an airplane with a parachute, jumping from a wave with a surfboard or from mountains with a snowboard. More recently, science has even gone as far as making possible the world’s first wireless bungee jumping.

Above these examples, Parkour shows itself as an increasing trend among the newest generations, that like to jump so high and far that it makes them feel like they can fly like a bird.

Your body can sustain itself in the air by the exact same laws that put an airplane in the sky, and despite this fact, due to our social programming, people tend to believe to be easier to fly inside a Boing with hundreds of people and baggage inside, weighting an average of 333,000 Kg, than on their own. And are surprised when a Boing crashes killing all the passengers, but aren’t surprised when they fall on the ground after a bad calculated jump in the air.

Furthermore, most people are more willing to enter an airplane than jump on a trampoline. And, they’re more terrified from bungee jumping, than spending hours at hundreds of meters above the ground.

All in all, we should seriously reconsider the human logic when applied to many other perspectives about reality and life.

Code 28: Logic is just a perception of possibilities.

One of these examples is the existence of Wi-Fi systems and smartphones in a world that doesn't believe in telepathy, or the existence of genetically modified organisms and hybrid life forms, in a planet that doesn't believe in the possibility of the human race being created by extraterrestrials.

People easily believe in the transition of energy, image and voice through the air, and into their laptops and smartphones, but not in the transition of thought. And they easily accept the possibility of cloning animals and humans, or transforming them genetically, and even making hybrids with different species, but refuse to accept that we may be a hybrid of two or more alien species as well.

Code 29: If we truly wish to know ourselves, we must challenge our beliefs.

Know that your spirit can do whatever you want it to do, because you're not your body.

The material world exists to teach us about our spirituality, not to enslave us. The enslavement of spirits within the material world is what the Power Elite is doing by following the same rules, as they can be applied for both good and evil.

We tend to observe our body in the same way we observe a plane or the material world around us, because, once conditioned in a certain way, the mind proceeds in analyzing other elements of reality based on the same principles. And that's how the first years of school often determine our entire life.

Due to this detachment from our spiritual nature, we grow less wise than we should be, and can't see that, in a higher dimension of existence, we can fly with our own body, because the laws of gravity don't apply in the same way in all realities, just like in space astronauts can fly because the laws of the material world apply differently to the same individuals. Besides, even though we may not have the ability to fly like the birds, they do, and we probably wouldn't wish it if they didn't exist, as we wouldn't have a reference to copy from and learn with.

Code 30: If you can see something, you can have it.

How smart are we as human beings, in all our hundreds of years developing machines to sustain our body, while birds only have to open their wings? We may be more intelligent but not more spiritual than any animal on earth. Life is a miracle and miracles are everywhere, if we can just see them. "The simplicity of observation is functional and will take Men from the bottom to the top" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

The Truth

STUDIES ABOUT HUMAN beings from other planets and non-humanoid alien races, as well as those about different religious perspectives and the basic concept of God and angels, allow always noticing a very clear pattern that keeps repeating itself. That paradigm shows that, what makes people less or more advanced, is the amount of truth they live with.

“There are three questions that have always haunted human beings: who are we? Where do we come from? Where do we go? And although the majority doesn’t know the answers, there have been always those that knew and transmitted them to those that were physically, morally, intellectually and spiritually ready, that had evolved enough to use the powers associated with this knowledge for exclusively humanitarian purposes. In this way, and everywhere, schools of mysteries were formed,... while the masses received the cult of the forces of nature, personified in gods, spirits, elves and demons” (António Monteiro, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

In this sense, an insane person is, basically, someone that isn’t true to himself and lives between the reality he understands and the distorted perspective of it that he’s trying to control. And the bigger this gap is, the more you can be sure to be in front of a neurotic or psychotic individual.

Indeed, the knowledge of truth is the only true knowledge worth knowing, because “Men who know are secure and Men who don’t know believe in luck” (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

In an extreme case, a psychologist would use the term “severe illness without cure”, while a scientologist would call it “point of no-return”. Nevertheless, if doctors and major food corporations, with the backup of the FDA (Food and Drug Administration) keep pushing deadly drugs and foods into society, while repressing homeopathic and natural cures, surely this will lead the majority to either die or be dumbed down, later justifying more control over them, in which the RFID (Radio Frequency Identification Chip) is the most desirable outcome for the Power Elite, as it will guarantee slavery from birth. “The very drugs prescribed by physicians to stabilize mental disorders in fact are inducing pathological changes in brain chemistry and triggering suicide, manic and psychotic episodes, convulsions, violence, diabetes, pancreatic failure, metabolic diseases, and premature death” (Robert Whitaker).

“The FDA is now engaged in covering-up a scandal and an epidemic, and its own corrupt practices” (Dr. Morris Waxler, former FDA Head of Research) and “the thing that bugs me is that the people think the FDA is protecting them. It isn’t. What the FDA is doing and what the public thinks it is doing are as different as night and day” (Dr. Ley, former Commissioner of the FDA).

Most people survive in a very unconscious level and it's scary when we look at this fact with the necessary information to analyze and evaluate it, knowledge that is being suppressed from the population, so that they don't see what's really happening.

“We laugh at sheep because sheep just follow the one in front. We humans have out-sheeped the sheep, because at least the sheep need a sheep dog to keep them in line. Humans keep each other in line. And they do it by ridiculing or condemning anyone who commits the crime, and that's what it's become, of being different” (David Icke).

A human won't be able to wake-up from a condition of psychological slavery, unless he's aware of the fact that the Pavlovian and Darwinian philosophies are helping the Power Elite leveling the population into being compared with laboratory rats within their own perception of who they are, while the secrets of the Kabala and many other mystical and gnostic traditions keep being hidden within their religious lodges and taken away from the public with moral persecution.

Code 31: The courage to be different builds a successful character.

Spiritual Evolution

IN ORDER TO EVOLVE into a higher, healthier and more enlightened mental state, the common qualities needed are truthfulness, spiritual sensibility and honest observation. Spiritual evolution is a route to freedom and “freedom is for honest people. No man who is not himself honest can be free – he is his own trap” (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

To find truth within honest observation and conduct, meditation is needed, as well as introspection through the analysis of the desires of the heart. “We can attune our desire bodies to any key we wish. After a time, that it will become a habit” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship)

There are many ways to achieve the same end, and that's the meaning of life - to explore our individuality and joy in living what matches our level of understanding, wisdom and honesty. Being honest with ourselves is what allows the development of who we are and our participation in this world.

This state of being, begins when you consciously admit lack of knowledge, because “the only true wisdom is in knowing you know nothing” (Socrates, Pythagorean Brotherhood). “Unless you change and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven” (Jesus in Matthew 18:3, in The Bible).

Code 32: A wise man cultivates naivety.

This naivety arises from the understanding that “to perceive the Divine Light which alone can illuminate our spiritual darkness, and to hear the voice of the silence which alone can guide us, we must cultivate our spiritual eyes and ears” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

The Dynamic of Cause and Effect

THERE'S AN INTIMATE, sometimes indistinguishable, and also progressive, connection between cause and effect, in both positive and negative dynamics. By following and applying the same rules, it's easy to see whose inside and outside of it, what is matching the rule or making the exception, who is intentionally confusing or misinterpreting, who is clear and knows or who is lost and doesn't. But, when what you see becomes a premonition of what later happens, that's when you know you're on the right track.

Code 33: Knowing is seeing; seeing is knowing.

This happens when we're able to perceive the oneness of all things, so "let us cultivate an attitude of optimism in all things, for all things work together for good - God is at the helm, nothing can go really wrong, and all will turn out right in God's good time" (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 34: Everything and anything can lead to the same outcome.

This is also the foundation of Buddhism, as it wasn't when meditating under the tree that Buddha became enlightened, but where he got a vision of truth.

The two concepts are different, as he later needed to apply his vision and see the flow of energy in movement, in order to finally accept that he was enlightened. His biography reveals this fact, as first he was shocked about his acknowledgement of suffering, then he seeks answers within his soul, by clarifying his mind with meditation, and finally interacts with the suffering individuals, in order to understand how what he found applies.

These steps were resumed by Suzuki Shōsan (Founder of Nio Zen Buddhism) in, first, "not to relieve ki, not to reduce ki and to activate ki stronger", second, "to reveal ki, nourish ki and ripen ki", and third, "to transfer ki and receive ki".

Buddha adapted in his experience, and kept learning after accepting misery, namely, when realizing that eating bird droppings doesn't really help enlightenment, but rice, at least, is necessary, even if achieved by begging it, or when realizing that having women in his group of followers wasn't necessarily bad, as the feminine energy interacts in the universe as well.

This said, if today “someone says that one will be free from all ideas and thoughts if one does not think,... this is a big error. Those who practice like this will get sick or go crazy owing to the reduction of ki” (Suzuki Shōsan, Nio Zen Buddhism).

Chastity and Sexuality

WE CAN UNDERSTAND WHY Buddha refused sex, even though nobody is completely sure that he didn't have sex after leaving his wife. He did have a lot before refusing it, which was the norm in India at that time, and not only with his wife but also his concubines. He even abandoned a son, when deciding to follow a spiritual life after becoming "enlightened".

Chastity, in this case, as in many others, like with the Knights Templar, has an explanation that is little known by the majority.

It is believed that, "if instead of wasting our substance, we live chastely and send the creative force upward for regeneration, we thereby etherealize and refine our physical bodies at the same time that we strengthen our soul bodies. In this manner we may materially lengthen life and so increase our opportunities for soul growth and advancement upon the Path in a very marked degree" (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

The ancient mystics knew that chastity allows the fundamental alchemic process of transmuting energy from our sexual organs to the mind, in a process that in Hinduism is known as the energy of kundalini and represented by a serpent.

This dynamic has the same meaning as the tree of life in Christianity, which is a metaphor for the Cabalistic tree of life, being the serpent that protects it a metaphor for the spinal cord.

While for most Christians, humans were expelled from paradise because they literally ate from the tree of life, due to the influence of a serpent, the Gnostics know that the tree of life is the human body, the serpent is the kundalini energy, which tempted humans through sexual desire, and sex was the prohibited fruit.

The paradise of this story, is actually a dimension of existence outside our current visual spectrum, that we can access spiritually, when our energy is transformed, or when we die and abandon the body.

Our creativity and ideas come from that realm, and that's why "when we realize that success doesn't consist in the accumulation of wealth but in soul growth, it will be evident that continence is an important factor in the attainment of success in life" (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

"A stage comes when the energy is no more directed towards the reproductive organs, but rather it moves upwards to the brain, enriching it for the paranormal and spiritual experiences" (Guru Ravindra Kumar, PhD). Therefore, in order to achieve success, we must develop intuition through the exercise and mastery of our sexual energy.

Sexual Energy and Secret Societies

SECRET SOCIETIES MAY seem divided regarding the meaning and practice of sex and their views about it, because while some regard chastity as the most important habit, others see the channeling of the kundalini energy through sex as the ideal application of sexual energy.

According to Kenneth Thurston Hurst, former president of the Academy of Religion and Psychical Research, the sexual energy, when preserved and properly channeled, can be used to enhance our creative abilities in many areas.

Code 35: Sexual energy can be channeled for creative and intuitive skills.

Nevertheless, whatever is the belief and application of the sexual energy within each religious society, they all understand the meaning of sex as energy, because enlightenment comes with the awareness of the energy of life within us.

It's also true that most prophets and spiritualists did have a fulfilling sexual life, although people tend to believe, due to negative perceptions about sex, that they were all virgins.

This idea is part of a religious programming, leading society to see sex and spirituality as different things, so that they may never become aware of their own spiritual virtues through sexual activities, and waste that energy, instead of using it to develop intuition.

"Most Hindu Godmen, avatars or saints, i.e. Shiva, Rama, Krishna, Buddha, Kabir, Raidass, Kapila, Gopi, were all married persons. Some of them wed more than once in the course of their lives. Raja Janak was always surrounded by beautiful ladies. Pythagoras married one of his young disciples in his early sixties and had seven children by her. Mohamad had ten wives and at least two concubines, one after another. The Islamic laws' limit of four wives per man was waived for the Prophet, according to a revelation in the Koran. The Sikh religion had a series of ten gurus, starting from Guru Nanak Dev to Guru Gobind Singh. All of them, without exception, were married. J. Krishnamurti, although never married officially, had Rosalind of the United States as a companion. Lahiri Mahasaya, the guru of Swami Yoganda Paramhansa, was married and had three children. Madame Helena Petrovna Blavatsky, founder of the Theosophical Society, first married at seventeen, then at forty-four and finally she formed a lifelong friendship with Colonel Henry Steel Olcott, the cofounder of the society. Aleister Crowley, not only married at twenty-eight and fifty-four, but was also known to have many extramarital relations” (Guru Ravindra Kumar, PhD). And in the Gospel of Jesus’s Wife, Jesus speaks of his mother, wife and a female disciple called Mary.

Secret societies claiming affiliation with the Knights Templar, know that Jesus was married and had a child, and some parts of the bible may suggest it as well, such as the one regarding the participation in a wedding that doesn’t mention the names of the married couple, leading many scholars to hypothetically suggest it as being his own marriage with Mary Magdalene, to whom alone he trusted his Church, information which has been suppressed by the Vatican for many centuries and exposed only by some like Leonardo Da Vinci, believed to be, apart from Rosicrucian, also a member of a secret society named the Priory of Sion and a scholar of Jewish Mysticism.

Spiritual Cognition

MOST ADULTS SUFFER from difficulties in achieving the truth, because social and educational conditionings have blocked the mind from accessing it. In psychology, this process is called crystallization, and explains the inability to change over the years. But religion has a different explanation for it, and regarding such people, says: “God takes away all their light, leaving them in utter darkness, unable to see - deaf, dumb, and blind”, because “they will not believe. God has sealed their hearts and their ears, and their eyes are covered” (The Cow, in The Quran).

One way or another, we are dealing with beliefs and experiences that form a personality unable to readjust when confronted with any amount of truth.

In many secret societies, this fact is studied and can be easily measured. The emotional scale of Scientology is a more detailed description of the Rosicrucian chart of the four kingdoms. Both describe the spiritual evolution of man, from the stage of a person controlled by his desires to someone determined by will and creative by nature, a free builder or a freemason.

This shows us that, while the theories of psychology have been promoted for the common man to believe in his decadent nature, and feel safe in his basic habits, members of secret societies went on a completely different path and towards enlightening themselves.

The majority of the population is kept blind on purpose, because, if people knew the truth, they could reshape their reality and change the world. Instead, they believe they can't change themselves, their life, their future and, surely, the world.

It's actually amusing that, when pushed hard enough to change himself, an individual typically answers: “I can't change the world”, as if the change in the world was a prerequisite to justify his own changes.

Thanks to the programming of the Power Elite, people accept these limitations, saying, when confronted with the truth or this possibility: “this is who I am” and “I just have to work harder to change my life”.

Regarding their future and the future of the world, they prefer to become passive spectators, giving the power of decision to their leaders, because “patriotism is usually stronger than class hatred and always stronger than internationalism” (George Orwell, Freemason).

Code 36: The truth above all truths is an unseen spiritual war.

The Secret to Healing

INSANITY HAS MANY DIFFERENT UNPREDICTABLE COMBINATIONS. Psychologists label insanity under diversified categories and names but they don't really study it or try to understand it. And members of secret societies know that insanity has nothing to study about. In today's world, to believe that an insane person can be helped by priests or psychiatrists, is like believing that the slaughter can help the dying lamb.

Only sanity can be studied and presented in one single perspective applicable to all human beings, but while psychiatry doesn't have it, secret societies will always hide it from the general public. This is why sciences and therapies that deny the existence of a spirit while focusing on the mind, namely, Psychology and Psychiatry, have very poor results.

Code 37: The answer to a thought is in the spirit.

These schools believe that there're many types of insanity but no truth in the world, so they blindly study insanity instead of truth. In fact, if we don't count patients that are healthy enough to do something for themselves, the success rate would very likely reach zero. And that's the reason why nobody will ever show such statistics.

If you want to know your spirit, you must use your imagination and realize your potential as a spiritual being. In order to do that, you must remember your past lives, by relaxing your body, and travel spirituality into the future, three hundred years from now, and describe what you would like to be doing. That's who you are. "The distinction between past, present and future is only an illusion, however tenacious this illusion may be" (Albert Einstein).

If you open a history book, point one date, and then describe what you would have liked to have done, that's who you were.

Code 38: Imagination is the guide to our subconscious.

From the level that the world experiences at the moment, we would probably need at least five hundred years to understand the truth. Nonetheless, there're many ways to reach it and in the end we can all see the same.

Code 39: Reality is merely the resulting combination of different interacting consciences agreeing with the same postulates.

Within this common system, you can heal your body by focusing in the parts that need to be healed, touching them and communicating with them. "No matter how hard the past, you can always begin again" (Buddha).

Perspectives about Reality

TO KNOW TRUTH WE MUST ask: what is truth?

Most religious persons would say that “truth is God”, but they can’t explain clearly who is God and hold a perspective of truth that is actually a religious dogma;

A scholar would say that “truth is knowledge”, but he can’t explain contradictory theories and holds a perspective of truth that is based on scientific dogma;

A politician would say that “truth is what people believe it to be”, but he can’t explain why people change opinion and holds a perspective of truth based on social dogma;

A scientist would say that “truth is in scientific research”, but he can’t explain the exceptions of his results and holds a perspective of truth based on personal dogma;

And all those that are insane will basically say that “truth doesn’t exist”, but can’t explain why they exist, and hold a perspective of truth based on disbelief.

In any social group, we either find the wrong dogmas or the absence of any belief system, which means that those that are not controlled within their illusion about life have no idea of what’s life. “Men are strong so long as they represent a strong idea, they become powerless when they oppose it” (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

If we ask them who they are, the answer will be presented within the same line of thought. They are what they were told to be.

What you recognize as being who you are, is what the Power Elite told you to be, namely, a worker, a citizen and a family member. Your social worth is equivalent to your level of indoctrination, which we call education, so that the most wide and strong dogmas can be used for some to rule over the others, that don’t have them or don’t believe in them. In the end, the good students that accepted all the lies, without ever rejecting them, rule society and manage corporations, where all the others that couldn't accept them are ruled.

Code 40: The world is just a theater with actors acting on their roles.

Most of the initiation rites of secret societies, are based on performances and tests that intend to disconnect the new members from the social programming in which they were born and raised. These rites must exist, because humans hate what they can't explain, as the light shows the evidence of their darkness.

The more enlightened you are, the more likely you'll make many people angry, and they'll always find ways to either diminish your potential with negative rumors or kill you, even if all you do is talk about love or about living a passionate life. "For whatever reason, efforts to improve oneself, to become happier in life, can become the subject of attacks. What, exactly, are such people trying to do to one? They are trying to reduce one downward" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

From Christ to Pythagoras and Socrates, including the Knights Templar, history is full of stories about members of secret societies that were murdered because of what they knew, due to the fact that most people fear the knowledge of others. This is something that those initiated in secret societies must be well aware of, and that's why we see so many rites in which the new member has to symbolically die or make an oath. It's not only important for him, but mostly to his fellowship, that is risking names and lives by allowing a new member to be part of their group and receive the same knowledge in their possession.

Even though portions of the knowledge keep being hidden within the highest hierarchies of each group, there are some, like scientology, that will oblige the new comer to sign dozens of legal papers related to this issue, and even name the person that has told him about the organization, which is something, one way or another, common to all secret societies. Bondage to a group of free thinkers (or free masons) is a basic requirement to become free with the revelations received from that society. And in this way, these societies are more than religious groups, they're fellowships and brotherhoods. They represent a unique reality within another.

Code 41: Rejection of the material world is what allows knowing the light.

Brainwaves and Frequencies

EVERYONE HAS A BRAINWAVE, a magnetic frequency associated with personal energy. The levels go from the most material or beta, followed by alpha and theta, to the most ethereal or delta.

Most people live in a beta state of mind, and have been getting lower in their frequency, due to exposure to electronic devices like smartphones, computers and iPads, as Wi-Fi exposure interferes with human frequencies, causing degenerative diseases and cancer, while also interfering with thought and creativity.

It's difficult to avoid this influence, namely in big cities, or crowded public places, as the frequencies of the devices people use cross our bodies and interfere with our magnetic balance.

One of these examples is meditation, as one can hardly keep the benefits of doing it, due to the constant influence of fast and disruptive frequencies from electronic devices and the people unknowingly influenced by such magnetic pollution.

Secret societies know that “the whole universe is vibrant with life, that each object constantly emits from itself vibratory waves which reveal its nature and presence. If it was possible to throw colored moving pictures of the desire body upon the screen and there show how this restless vehicle changes contour and color according to the emotions, even then it would not give an adequate understanding to anyone who was not capable of seeing these things himself” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 42: The magnetic field of our environment affects ours.

A highly spiritual individual can thus sense and perceive lower levels of brainwaves in social environments, which will make him feel tired when such magnetism interferes with his. And that's why such people tend to avoid crowded places and prefer isolation.

Code 43: You're as good as the people you surround yourself with.

The spiritual awakening, that society has been developing with the Era of Aquarius, is also related to a magnetic interference in their physical bodies. And even though not all humans have felt it, and have been suffering more with diseases of various nature, others have no choice but to change their habits, as their bodies react more aggressively to processed foods, meat consumption and other poisonous interferences in the chemical body housing the spirit. “The bodies are becoming more high-string and more sensitive to pain on account of the spirit’s growing consciousness” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 44: Happiness is both a sacrifice and a choice.

Governments from around the world have been making efforts to bring people into the cities because they know this. And for those with lower brainwaves, being inside a crowd makes them in fact feel good, because it is like being among a higher power of the same level, providing a sense of security, just like the feeling of being inside a big family. And yet, for individuals in a higher spiritual level, this same experience represents a torture of the body and mind.

The Negative Transmutation

PEOPLE OF LOWER ENERGY levels will always feel good inside crowded places, like shopping malls, parties and riots, and they're the majority. The minority is driven by purpose when inside such environments, and not magnetic pulsations or emotions. And they will avoid them when feeling negative, because it doesn't match their nature, namely, when feeling weak, sick, angry or stupid.

These feelings don't just describe what we can feel in environments of lower nature, but also what we can see in the attitudes and actions of individuals promoting such magnetic fields. Criticism, insults, ridicule, discrimination, obsession, manipulation, selfishness, arrogance, jealousy, guilt tripping, gossiping and aggression, are all common behaviors seen in negative individuals.

It must be known as well, that negativity is correlated to fear and worry, which are the most common emotions in society.

It's then expectable that anyone, unaware of this knowledge or, while aware, failing in controlling his emotions, may rapidly change personality and become a completely different person, unrecognizable and distinct from the previous.

It is indeed as if we were living in a world of zombies and vampires, where each one of us becomes one of them, after being bitten and contaminated with the negative energy of those that already have such nature.

The strong attachment to material objects or physical recognition, like money and popularity, makes most people become extremely vulnerable to a negative transmutation within their soul.

"In the great majority of mankind there is such a preponderance of selfishness and a desire to get the most out of life as they view that matter, that either they are busy keeping the wolf from the door or accumulating possessions and taking care of them, and hence they have very little time or inclination to undertake the soul culture so necessary to true success in life” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 45: Our attitude towards life determines life’s attitude towards us.

If your brainwaves are in lower levels, it means that so is your body, leading you to become more vulnerable to diseases, anger and stress, which in turn make you vulnerable to lack of self-control.

It’s not a coincidence that, when near negative individuals, we tend to get sick, angry and even violent.

Most psychologists are unaware that mental disorders are contagious and have affected their mind and work. So, it’s not a coincidence as well, that most therapists tend to lose the potential to efficiently analyze a problem in their patients over the years. An individual affected by lower frequency waves, operates with a logic that doesn’t necessarily solve a problem. It’s a process that guides the mind without self-awareness or critical thinking, a skill that education intends to develop in citizens, while suppressing the ability to analyze situations from different perspectives and the innate skill of problem-solving with creativity that we see in animals.

The suppression of thought is such in the modern world, that is not a surprise to find many psychologists and psychiatrists under the effect of some kind of drug, from medications for allergies, vaccines and vitamins to antidepressants. And these would be the best cases among them, as these are also among the careers with the highest suicide rate.

Code 46: Thought is affected by energy.

We can’t escape the magnetic field around us. The people that are closest to you, such as neighbors, colleagues and friends, as well as everyone else that you encounter when using public transportations, affect your energy field. And that’s why, those that know it, have always, throughout history, tried to be apart from society, in their castles and palaces positioned in isolated locations.

This magnetic field is constantly in interaction, and our brainwaves, as well as our thoughts, are reflections of it.

Transhumanism and Slavery

THE INTRODUCTION OF the RFID microchip will bring to the Power Elite the possibility of controlling and monitoring thoughts and energy frequencies, as well as manipulate them, transforming humanity into a community of idealistic slaves as never before seen in our history.

This intention is well-known for over twenty years among different secret societies, even though only now shown and starting to be applied in the public.

Most people are completely unaware of the dangers and consequences of having smartphones, google-classes or RFID implanted microchips in their bodies.

These technologies allow the possibility of monitoring every single behavior, all the time and everywhere, with the help of surveillance cameras, which are already equipped with speakers, so that in the future they may be able to give orders as well.

Transhumanism will bring a new era of slavery to the still very irresponsible humanity. While people keep saying “I can’t change the world” or “I can’t do anything about it”, they will be moving towards an authoritarian, ruthless and monolithic world without freedom or freewill, a world in which these questions will vanish, because the possibility to monitor thought will make impossible to even ask whatsoever.

These will truly be dark ages for mankind, which won’t be able to call itself this name anymore, as humans won’t have the arbitrary possibility to choose between being or not responsible for their spirituality.

This is a reality that many secret societies are actually against and fighting with hard work to avoid, but the Power Elite, arrogant, greedy and ambitious, will continue in murdering as many as needed to proceed in their vision of a new world order ruled by their law.

The misuse of responsibility in life and in spiritual duties, leads people to magnetic states that influence their emotions and environment, changing their life in a negative direction. And, aware of this, the Power Elite has been trying to condition humanity to feel constant fear, with economic collapses and war, so that their agenda may be more quickly applied.

“The inner fear of yielding to emotion – fear being saturnine in effect and twin sister to worry – seems to require a shock that will take the person so affected out of his environment and set him down in a new place among new conditions before the old conditions can be overcome (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 47: Fear is the worse condition in spiritual development.

Power and Identity

WE'RE NOT WHO WE THINK we are but who we haven't chosen to be, because we believe to have a personality reflecting our identity.

Our true identity can only be found in our spirit, but its manifestation is trapped between thoughts, and, the lower the frequency of our brainwaves, the more thoughts we have.

Thoughts are a consequence of energy under effect, while absence of thoughts is the result of energy used for creation. Therefore, although we may justify our actions with our personality, in fact, our lack of responsibility and awareness about our personality, and how it is affected by the magnetic fields around us, is affecting our behaviors and habits.

If you ask an artist what inspiration is, he'll tell you that it's manifested when working without the conscience of self, time, space and reason. This condition occurs because creativity is manifested under the influence of theta and delta brainwaves.

Amadeus Mozart (Freemason) knew this well, as he intentionally and subliminally mentioned it when writing: "I am a vulgar man! But I assure you, my music is not".

Despite this, ignorance leads many to take drugs in order to try to replicate such state while under the process of creativity, because they're unaware of how to control this frequency, this state of mind, known for thousands of years among members of secret societies, that very often obeyed strict rules regarding not drinking alcohol or consuming drugs while also being vegetarian.

Creativity, or the ability to have positive and uplifting ideas, can be achieved by lowering the speed of our brainwaves and then keep a delta state of mind. This can be done when connecting to the magnetic field of the planet, under meditation or other exercises.

A few examples of how to do this are walking barefooted and hugging a tree, which produce immediate results, and even faster and easier than meditation, as it's quite difficult to meditate when most of your neighbors are keeping their Wi-Fi devices in use, or while being among your own electric devices inside the house.

Code 48: We must keep a close relationship with nature.

Another good strategy to rebalance brainwaves, even though just momentarily, is music and, more precisely, songs that are closer to delta waves of sound, such as classical music, which usually has a speed around 60bpm, the same of a normal heartbeat.

When your heart and mind are synchronized with tranquilizing brainwaves, your analytical ability increases, and you become more effective. So, it's actually delusional to believe that fear and stress are good combusts for energy as education have conditioned the masses to accept. "Everything in creation is governed by the law of love" (Antonio Terrer Hernández, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

We live in a world in which physical speed seems more important, but most people go nowhere in life. On the other hand, while highly spiritual individuals seem to be slower than the average, they actually change much faster than anyone else.

This happens because they're connected and aware of their spiritual link to the energy of the planet, which is connected to the universal matrix of cosmic vibration.

"Under no circumstances has force ever worked! An idea any day of the week can lick the pants off of force" (L. Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

Code 49: We must resonate within earth's electromagnetic field.

In knowing this, we can then understand why the Power Elite intends to reduce the world population from 7 Billion to 500 million, as that's the only way to achieve a perfect balance with nature.

To resume this principle, you don't need to go faster in life, but merely be in the here and now.

Code 50: A thought is faster than any action.

Social Paradigms

WE OFTEN SAY OR LISTEN to things like “don't write books because it doesn't pay well”, “don't paint because it doesn't pay well” and “don't be a musician because it doesn't pay well”. It's all about don't, don't, don't, because, because, because. And “Virtue has never been as respectable as money” (Mark Twain, Freemason).

“Today almost any person has a present time problem, growing more pressing as time goes on and as our society evolves” (Ron Hubbard, Scientology). But, both the problems and suggestions we hear, are interconnected in the same paradigm.

Code 51: Thoughts are expressions of paradigms.

These things that individuals, living outside the common paradigm, listen to, are formed under observation, which is limited by life experience. So, what the social paradigm really shows, is a majority of shared ideas, a common belief.

You and everyone you know, had their dreams crushed by false beliefs, seen often too late to recover years of mistakes, because the educational and social structure are well-built to stop dreamers, creators of alternative realities.

This happens because the Power Elite understands the meaning of inspired creativity as not being merely a gift, as we're told to perceive it, but an inspired act compared to the act of a prophet, in which once acted upon can create a chain of changes within the physical world.

When this happens, either the artist is put out of the scene or his art is maintained under the laws of these societies. That's why while many musicians end up working for the Power Elite, others are jailed with false accusations and murdered. But it's also for this reason that the Vatican has the biggest art collection in the world.

A closer observation of certain laws, allows understanding the common paradigms from different and wiser perspectives. As an example, the economical principle of Pareto states that 80% of the effects come from 20% of the causes. In other words, your money comes from 20% out of 80% in your investment. Some experts in economy, state that if you take the income of your five closest friends, those with whom you spend most of your time with, your income will be within 10% of the average, which basically means that you have the average of your five best friends.

As a conclusion, we can see that, if your investment increases, so does your income. “Nothing can stop the man with the right mental attitude from achieving his goal” (Thomas Jefferson, Illuminati and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 52: Faith, persistence and hard work pays off.

On the other hand, community surveys estimate that, as many as 30% of the adult population in the United States, suffers from mental disorders, which shows that 30% of your friends are likely to have mental disorders.

We can also see that, choosing your friends carefully, may determine your future, as our friends influence our life. But, if 30% of our closest friends are probably suffering from some kind of mental disorder, 30% of friendly advices received are not accurate.

The paradigm, within the way we monitor ourselves as a group, shows that what people think about each other is just a reflection of what surrounds them and how they interpret it, but not necessarily the truth. As a matter of fact, if 30% of the people are mentally ill without knowing it, 30% of that truth is definitely being misinterpreted. And that's a lot, more precisely, $\frac{1}{4}$ of what you hear.

Code 53: At least 25% of what you hear is not true.

The Independent Paradigm

SOCIAL PARADIGMS ALWAYS disregard the most important and determinant element of all and that's individuality. We learn almost everything we know as a group, inside the family, school, and later as employees and pawns within a multitude of events related to work and relationships. As a consequence, the paradigm is formed under the idea of 'I can't do it alone'. But "If you can't live alone, you've born a slave" (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

It wasn't a common paradigm, a social group or even a country, that changed the world, but individuals. And that's why our problems can be resumed to the same mind programming, the paradigm that conditions our thoughts and decisions throughout our life, as well as our interactions with others.

Many may have studied the same subject, or created different theories and perspectives about it, but one individual only took action and manifested the car - Karl Benz, the light bulb - Thomas Edison, the iPad - Steve Jobs and the fax machine - Jerome Lemelson.

Code 54: Free minds change the world, not groups of people.

Our environment and its objects, money included, are just tools that we use to reach our goals, not the path itself. And should never be confused with the ultimate purpose, which is enlightenment.

Within this insight, there's also the fact that most people, unaware of this knowledge and irresponsible about their spiritual evolution, living an animalistic state of mind conditioned by their emotions, are just tools and not fit to be creators, leaders or even friends, and should never be trusted for this same reason.

Even when using the tools of others, what the masses do is behave as tools of a system, by doing what they've been programmed to do, instead of thinking by themselves. And this is why "if you're explaining, you're losing" (Ronald E. Reagan, Knights of Malta).

The value of a tool is measured by its predictability, and that's how we evaluate good workers in any position of the social hierarchy, but this doesn't mean that those that believe in the system are trustable as individuals. They are the most disgusting of all human beings, because they're willing to die and kill to protect a lie. "When a man assumes a public trust he should consider himself a public property" (Thomas Jefferson, Illuminati and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 55: We must not trust those that can't trust themselves.

The real satanic force that we must always oppose, is manifested in those that blindly obey the rulers of the delusional world, namely, soldiers, politicians, police officers, teachers, physicians, nurses, dentists, psychologists and psychiatrists. Because, "a thing which is always subject to the direction of another is somewhat of a dead thing" (Thomas Aquinas, Catholic Priest and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

The exceptions in these groups are minorities and difficult to find, as most end up losing their jobs when speaking and acting in defense of the truth.

It's difficult to post a threat to the system of things as we know it today, because most of the leaders occupying key positions in the world, and in many important institutions, have been carefully selected by their loyalty and not wisdom.

Code 56: It's more important how people perceive themselves inside the system than what they think about who they are.

People can't really help anyone by saying "you should" or "you shouldn't", but they do help when providing the necessary tools to achieve your dreams or when being themselves a tool to help you. And that's the moment when you realize their real value. "The holy passion of Friendship is of so sweet and steady and loyal and enduring a nature that it will last through a whole lifetime, if not asked to lend money" (Mark Twain, Freemason).

It may be difficult to make money with writing, painting, photography, or any other form of art, but many people can and there're many paths to achieve it, even though two changes are always the most significant in this process, namely, yourself and your reality.

Code 57: You must change yourself or your reality.

Despite what we've been taught to believe, "the solution and possibilities to solve a problem are many" (Vladimir Putin, Freemason).

Perspective and Relativity

WHEN I WROTE MY FIRST book, everyone said I wouldn't make much money as an author and should stop writing. Their conclusion was based in the total amount of revenue I made from that book - a 700 pages work about spiritual wisdom providing me zero dollars.

However, after writing more than 200 Books in 5 years, I reached the amazon, kobo and iTunes bestselling charts more than 90 times and with different books, and my income increased dramatically, allowing me to quit my job one year later.

A common person wouldn't even write 50 Books in 4 years, or in a lifetime, but that's the element of individuality in action, and that's why we can't judge our dream, or judge others based on our background. "This dream, like the winged messenger, seems to be divinely inspired and hints at the opportunity that is about to present itself" (Soror E.A.S., Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 58: We dream about what we can achieve.

People judge with what they can see, but all they see is a person holding to something that they interpret with their own mind. In fact, they truly know nothing about that individual's potential and, very often, even the individual isn't aware of it, until he puts himself to the test. "We think too small, like the frog at the bottom of the well. He thinks the sky is only as big as the top of the well, but if he surfaced, he would have an entirely different view" (Mao Zedong, Illuminati and Freemason).

Most people project themselves in what they see, so they judge others based on their self-judgments of "I can't, therefore, you can't". But judgments are merely projections of personal paradigms.

Every physical orientated goal is an illusion, including money. It's never about what you see, but what you can do with what is seen, and it's never about wealth, but what you can do when having it. "Instinct of love toward an object demands a mastery to obtain it” (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

Interestingly, just like the paradigm is shaped by the mind with the information received by the environment, people change their attitude in the same way. “If a person feels they can't control the object or feel threatened by it, they act negatively toward it” (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

Consequently, those that refuse to change their paradigm, and adjust to your achievements, will leave your life if you succeed, and eventually abandon you. One day, you'll simply stop receiving their replies to your emails and calls. And they'll create all kind of excuses to justify their unreasonable behavior, the unseen insanity. But “fame must have enemies, as light must have gnats. Do not bother yourself about it; disdain. Keep your mind serene as you keep your life clear” (Victor Hugo, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

On the other hand, those that are willing to change their paradigm, will shift from “you can't make money from...”, “you can't make significant amounts from...”, “you can't make a living from...”, to finally say “I knew you could make it”. This is why what we think about ourselves is more important than what others make us believe.

As an example of this, notice that Tom Cruise (winner of three Global Globe Awards, and Scientologist), said: “As a young actor, people were trying to define who I was before I really knew that for myself. But I still remember thinking, 'This is what I love doing, and I hope I'm going to be able to do it forever’”.

Code 59: We must know and be ourselves above common beliefs regarding who we are or should be.

The raw truth is that real friends are only those that dream with you. Others are enemies of your spiritual achievements and you mustn't share anything, not even your dreams or thoughts, with them.

Your power in life comes when you awake from it and realize how the social belief system works. This will allow you to reposition yourself on the spectrum of life and restart a new karmic wheel of experiences. "We can't have full knowledge all at once. We must start by believing; then afterwards we may be led on to master the evidence for ourselves" (Thomas Aquinas, Catholic Priest and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Solving problems isn't about closing your eyes to them but facing them with the necessary available information. This confrontation may lead to suffering and regret, but "the emotion of remorse cleanses and purifies the desire body of weeds and tares, leaving the soil free and fostering for the growth of manifold virtues that blossom into spiritual advancement and bring greater opportunities for service in the Master's vineyard" (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

This truth can be resumed by the fact that human beings are measured by the amplitude and commitment to their dreams. "A seed is useless and impotent unless it is put in its appropriate matrix" (Christian Rosenkreuz, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 60: Your body is a temple of God and you commit to Him by committing to the dream that He inspires you to follow.

The Challenge of Change

HUMAN BEINGS HAVE AN egotistic need to be correct all the time and that is what makes it difficult to accept any change in their reality. To be wrong is a contradiction to self, reason why most people can't find their life purpose, as who they are and what they should be doing is spiritually related.

These individuals are living in denial, because they can't accept the fact that family, life, happiness, money, career, love and even power, aren't forever. And above everything, they have a tremendous difficulty in accepting that they don't own anything or anybody, although attachments in this lifetime made them believe they do.

You can't control the future, events or people, but you can understand them to increase the probability of success. As an example, while the majority wishes to predict the future to know what's going to happen, the Power Elite does it to change what will happen. So, while most people neglect the need to make plans and organize their life in order to have a better future, the Power Elite plans the future not only for this generation but for the next.

We may want to believe that previous world wars and economic depressions have awakened people from their deep sleep, but they didn't and that's why history keeps repeating itself.

To be right is better than to be wrong, but, when you're wrong believing you're right, life makes you realize it within your mind, your heart and your soul, and that's the source of both mental and physical diseases. "Illusions commend themselves to us because they save us pain and allow us to enjoy pleasure instead. We must therefore accept it without complaint when they sometimes collide with a bit of reality against which they are dashed to pieces" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

The truth is that your personal beliefs aren't important to anyone else, unless they can use it for their own benefit. On the other hand, "only aim to do your duty, and mankind will give you credit where you fail” (Thomas Jefferson, Illuminati and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Reality is not what you see, but what is, and you don't know what is until you are yourself first.

Code 61: Failure is a reflection of ignorance about the true nature of life.

To be successful in life, you must recognize that, at this moment, without experience in the gnostic secrets and the necessary spiritual freedom to apply them, you're truly nothing more than a social project created from a multitude of social expectations that contributed to your personality, as well as a potential of what you could have become but didn't.

Code 62: You're the only responsible owner of the reality you were born to have.

The Concept of Wealth

TO UNDERSTAND THE CONCEPT of wealth, let's consider the amount of USD 500. It may not be much if you live in the USA or France, but more than one billion people - one-sixth of the world's population - lives in extreme poverty, on less than one dollar a day.

Furthermore, the average monthly income in Belarus (Europe) is around $200, although people still manage to pay food, flats and smartphones. In Belarus Universities, Lecturers working full-time earn less than shop assistants, around $197 per month. But in China, the most powerful economy in the world, a Lecturer earns an average of 500 dollars a month.

In Portugal (Europe), $500 is the minimum wage. But while in most European countries it's impossible to rent an apartment for this amount of money, in Ireland and the south of Spain, you can rent a room for half of that ($250). And, for the same quantity, you can rent a whole house in the north of Portugal, with three rooms and a living room.

If we extend this analysis to a yearly income, consider that working during two years for the minimum wage in Australia, Luxembourg, Monaco, San Marino, New Zealand, Belgium and the Netherlands, allows you to buy an apartment with ocean view in the touristic south of Portugal and Spain. In other words, someone working for McDonalds in Australia has a better chance of buying his freedom in two years, than most residents in the European peninsula have in twenty.

Reality is indeed only a dream. The more you feed your mind with information like the one that was just now provided, the easier it becomes to make plans for the future and dream, and that's why knowledge is potential power, in the sense that, the more you know, the more you can do with your life.

Besides, it's also very interesting noticing that the cheapest places to live in the world are, at the same time, some of the most beautiful and often chosen merely for tourism, such as Thailand, the Philippines and Malaysia.

In Thailand, for example, near the coast, a room in an apartment runs at roughly $90 upwards. But I have lived in a hotel room in Thailand, with view to the mountains, plenty of sunshine during the day, a big bed, a television, and a big swimming pool included, for only $150 a month, and paid no more than one dollar a day to eat a good meal in local restaurants.

As for the efforts that most people do in having and keeping a job that provides them a good income, I must say that you're not as rich as the amount of money you make, but the amount you can keep after spending what you earn.

To illustrate this explanation, it is suffice to say that, while a manager in many countries, including Singapore, Hong Kong and China, can earn between $1000 to $5000, an employee of McDonalds in Sweden, a bartender in Luxembourg and a taxi driver in Australia can earn the same. But the minimum wage in Switzerland is above $6000, which means you can earn that by cleaning toilets as well.

In the world we live today, freedom can also be more expensive than the lack of it, and to prove it we have the prisons of Sweden, which offer better conditions than any slum house of Brazil.

Freedom, careers, income and housing are related to the perception of wealth that leads many people to value or devalue themselves according to what they possess. And indeed, the value of a human life has decreased so much in the latest centuries that it's now possible to legally buy a young, beautiful and virgin Vietnamese wife for only $5000.

So, which conclusions can we take from this? As strange and insulting as it may seem, it tells us that, if you're willing to clean toilets for one year in a rich country, you can buy a house in a beautiful place and own a beautiful woman, while being surrounded by retired old British and North Americans that spent their entire life working to achieve the same, and only have about 10 to 15 years left, or less, to enjoy it before they die.

I haven't cleaned toilets or bough any of the beautiful women I've lived with, but I assure you that the hate I feel in the eyes of such people, when they look at me, could embarrass Satan. And that's what you'll get from the world if you 'cheat' on its matrix. People will hate you because they feel that you've cheated in their game of life. They are unaware that their whole existence was a lie and they were the ones cheated. But one "can't be himself without being willing to grant beingness, because he's the only one that can grant beingness to himself" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

Code 63: Wealth is an illusion determined only by conceptualizations about it.

If you don't want to work a single day again in your life, the solution can be as simple as renting a new house or using the house bought by your grandfather, and then making spare rooms available to tourists. That's what many young Italians and Spanish are doing. If you own a house in cities like Florence or Barcelona, European history will pay you.

The Alchemical Transmutation

THE STAGES OF TRANSMUTATION are the same for everyone, and they also apply for gaining wealth.

I'll use my own example to illustrate them. Those that knew I was a writer, kept telling me: "You can't make a living as a writer", because they were measuring the activity by its results. This is something that education teaches us to do, and that's why people tend to have difficulties in seeing the world from other perspectives that aren't related to results, appreciation or wealth. They forget that these elements are superficial to life and you can't control them.

This paradigm shows itself along the whole process of confronting others with something they analyze based on this assessment. So, before becoming a writer, I was facing laughter, ridicule and disdain, when mentioning that I wanted to become a writer, because my background and achievements were related to music, not words.

As a consequence, "you may have to fight when there is no hope of victory, because it is better to perish than to live as slaves" (Winston Churchill, Freemason and member of the Ancient Order of Druids of Oxford). You have to look at your life purpose, what you love to do and your ability to learn from your mistakes, while correcting your actions.

Such attitude is more important than the results or the recognition of others, because it'll allow you to gain control over those same results and permanently change your life. "Change will not come if we wait for some other person or some other time. We are the ones we've been waiting for. We are the change that we seek" (Barack Obama, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

In this process, even if you're just dealing with plans and methods, there's a huge amount of self-awareness to be exercised, developed and recognized. In my case, I already knew that I love to create things in the field of art, either as a designer or a musician. I just didn't know how to transform it into a business. The first opportunity to do that came from music, when I started organizing events and hiring DJs, but also from Martial Arts, as an Instructor. And although the results were very positive, they always redirected me to another experience that I wasn't seeing before, related to sharing my knowledge in a creative way.

Within my reality, the correlation between music, teaching and writing was obvious, because I was never looking at music or teaching as a process in itself, but instead the connections between me and others, the emotions transmitted and the way I could express them better. The sense of fulfillment made me become aware that this was the path, not the end to my journey. So, I started using the same skills to take my entire knowledge one step ahead, and that was writing books.

The feeling that I was within my life purpose, and loving this new activity, was so obvious that I wasn't bothered by spending an average of ten hours a day, seven days a week, writing for a total of five years of my life, one book after another, without any break. It was so natural for me to do this that, if someone had asked me to stop, it was like asking me to stop breathing. And in fact I would prefer to write when sick than stop and be in bed, which would make me feel much worse.

Within this path, I didn't have to worry about the rest. Constant job offers, and dozens of them, would fall into my email box without any request or search, especially when I needed them the most. I also received many offers from friends to be their partner in business and start businesses with them. And even the bank offered me money when I needed it the most, which I used to travel and work abroad for a better schedule, in order to have much more free time to write books.

It was as if God was acknowledging my efforts in working for him and uplifting mankind with what I know, so I never had to worry about money. "God truly loves those who fight in solid lines for His cause, like a well-compacted wall" (Solid Lines, in The Quran).

After two years writing books, I found the job and life that any writer could wish. I was working only two hours a week as a lecturer, living for free in a huge hotel apartment with everything, including a big kitchen, had four months of paid vacations a year, which meant not having those two working hours during 1/3 of the year, and dated some of the most beautiful women I ever saw in my life, because although I didn't have the motivation to date anyone, women would approach me in the coffee shops where I was working, which also allowed me to make lots of friends and meet many interesting people.

This represented a huge change in my life, because just 4 years before that I was working very hard, seven days a week, with one full-time job as manager of a multinational training company, three businesses in the music industry and 4 part-time jobs related to teaching and sports instruction. I was sleeping an average of three hours a day, in order to find time between eleven o'clock at night, when I arrived home from a very busy day, and two in the morning, the time when I couldn't keep my eyes open, to continue writing my first books.

I never had to plan what to write and I never calculated the amount of money I can make with books. Since I started writing, God has put into my life more experiences, knowledge and interesting people than what I can describe in my writings.

Thanks to this overflow of ideas and inspiration, I was able to write faster than what I could publish, and therefore, although only about 200 of my books are available to the public, I have written more than 300 about many different topics.

God provides everything I need, and I'm now a full-time writer living in Costa del Sol, south of Spain, after having experienced living as a full-time writer in other countries around the world, namely, USA, China, Portugal, India and Thailand.

This is something that most people can't understand and I can't easily explain, although I've shared it several times in my books, and I'm doing it again with this book. In short, "to one who has faith, no explanation is necessary, and to one without faith, no explanation is possible" (Thomas Aquinas, Catholic Priest and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Today, “I am at peace with God. My conflict is with Man” (Charlie Chaplin, Loyal Order of Moose). Because, wherever I go, people look at me as if I was an insult to their existence. I am very young and healthy, with good appearance, and I don’t need a job. But jealousy is too painful to accept for too long, so most people assume I work for either a criminal or a terrorist organization, and avoid me with fear. That’s why, when uncomfortable with neighbors, I simply travel to somewhere else in the planet. And I travel so much, that I’m always stopped at the arrival of any airport, to get a detailed search for drugs, simply because nobody believes I am real.

I also tend to receive strong criticism from those that suspect my abilities and believe I steal knowledge from somewhere or someone. Their attitude sometimes brings problems into my life, as when publishers take my books from their platforms, just when they’re selling the most, to check the content, not allowing me to sell during those periods. But it also hurts to see the amount of discrimination in the words of some readers, that judge me without knowing anything about me or my past, and especially not knowing the amount of hours I dedicated to write books without a break to eat, sometimes for more than 20 hours in a row.

Another part of this journey regards learning from our mistakes, even if my biggest mistake has been not acknowledging that the masses are much dumber and cruel than I thought they were. That’s why I have divided myself in more than 10 different pen-names and won’t publish new books under the name Daniel Marques anymore.

The biggest challenge in life, from what I came to understand, comes from people trying to stop us. Apart from that, there’s no challenge greater enough to defeat an inspired person. But “blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness’ sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven” (Matthew 5:10, in The Bible).

With the help of God, it only took me 5 years to finally reach the life I once dreamed about but thought to be impossible to achieve. I can't precisely describe how I got here, because the steps combine a huge amount of unpredictable situations and events that nobody could describe with detail in a book. But certainly, it wouldn't be possible without faith and love for what I do, and that's the glue connecting the pieces of both small and big experiences, from the heaviest in difficulty to the lightest in beauty.

I do need to have plenty of love to share amazing knowledge that has changed my life and the life of people I met and helped with the rest of the world, as I then see part of this same world showing depreciation by writing hateful and cruel reviews about such books while another part keeps silent.

It would be easier if more people gave me good reviews, to encourage my efforts and belief in my work, but that's part of the challenge you'll also face in your life, as I saw it many times in other people's life as well.

Code 64: You have to go beyond social agreement if you truly want to do something unique that nobody else can understand.

More importantly, I have lots of fun with my work, because I usually write in coffee shops, sometimes with friends from many countries around me, including France, Germany, India, USA, Spain, Saudi Arabia, Russia, Venezuela, China and others, sharing their life experiences and thoughts, and inspiring my writing with their energy. And luckily for me, the most beautiful places in the world are actually cheaper and safer to live than what we can find in the big cities, and tend to have the kindest, wisest and friendliest people as well.

From another perspective, I may not yet be successful and never will be in the eyes of my family, that expect me to make thousands of dollars a month working in an office in some North American or European Company. I may also not be successful in the eyes of my students, which would expect me to continue working as a lecturer in a big city and a famous university. But I am successful to myself, because I have conquered the beautiful lifestyle I always dreamed about during my entire life. I am a full-time artist in my own paradise and I couldn't be happier.

The day I entered an uninhabited island in the Philippines, it was like I was entering inside the wallpaper that I had in the screen of my computer for many years, when I was a student, to inspire me to dream. At that moment, I was inside my dream. It was an alchemical transmutation that I have experienced countless times, because with success also comes the understanding of how to be successful.

That was only the first step of my journey, as I realized that this wasn't the country I had chosen to live as a writer, and decided to continue chasing my biggest dream, instead of succumbing to the reality or a partially accomplished dream.

To be more precise, I live with the constant conscience of three realities: The material world, my emotional world and my mental world. But I don't worry much about the first, because the Kingdom of God that Jesus talked about is in the other two, and these are the most important. So, if you want the same for yourself, "seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you" (Matthew 6:33, in The Bible). "God will be enough for those who put their trust in Him" (Divorce, in The Quran).

The Power of Satan

DURING MY STILL VERY short existence, I have accomplished many things that are seen as impossible and unreal for everyone around me, and yet the fact remains that I have truly done it. With this transmutation, I've also gained many spiritual powers, which I stopped describing to others, because first they ridicule and doubt, but when shown they fear it and fear me.

The world isn't ready for many things, so there'll always be secrets that we must keep to avoid mass paranoia while developing ourselves in the light of God.

You too will gain many special powers that you thought to be impossible to exist by following the knowledge in this book. You don't need to fear those abilities and they have nothing to do with demonic possession, as many unintelligent and uninformed individuals believe. "Individuality is only possible if it unfolds from wholeness", so there's actually "more sense in our nonsense and more nonsense in our sense" (David Bohm, Physicist).

Spiritual powers are gifts from God, for proving yourself honest and trustworthy in your faith, and for your endeavors in the path towards the light. They are as natural as your journey in life as a spirit.

Code 65: Rejection of the ego allows spirit wholeness.

In this world, demonic possession is reserved to those that don't believe that they have a spirit, as well as those that, in their greed and arrogance, reject their own spirituality and moral responsibility towards the rest of mankind.

God allows demonic power over the unfaithful, the untruthful and the cruel, as a path to their self-destruction, just like He closes the mind and heart of those that neglect the path of the light. "Wrongdoers only have each other to protect them; the righteous have God Himself as their protector" (Kneeling, in The Quran).

These will never recognize the truth, they'll always be blind to this truth and the truth won't find them. They will laugh about the unknown to suppress their fear of what they can't see and the suffering that such light can cause to them when revealing the darkness in which they live, as well as the pain that will come from the conscious awareness of regret, guilt, sin and remorse. "On the Day when excuses will not profit the evildoers, their fate will be rejection and they will have the worst of homes" (The Quran 40:39).

Truly, those that hide the most create their own darkness, because they can only hide the truth from themselves. And even if the truth is revealed to them within their secret societies, it will be reinterpreted in their mind according to their wicked desires. They may even create a new religious philosophy from what they have learned but it won't have anything to do with the truth. Their words will be rotten fruits from their distorted mind, because God won't water their spirit. "Alas for those whose hearts harden at the mention of God! They have clearly lost their way" (The Throngs, in The Quran).

Hell is within the wicked and they're already dead without knowing it. If you want to meet Satan, all you need to do is look deep into their eyes. So, it's not surprising indeed, that one of the rules for participating in a Bilderberg meeting, the one that gathers the most influential and powerful individuals in the world, is not to look any participant in the eyes.

Code 66: You must honestly and completely repent all your evil deeds so that the light may enter inside you.

Crying is for the eyes as sorrow is for the heart. Both are natural cleansing processes. But you'll more likely see a Christian crying than a Banker, because one has indoctrinated himself in the idea of being a sheep, while the other has educated himself in thinking like a wolf.

Time in Transmutation

THE AMOUNT OF TIME needed to achieve your dreams is relative to many variants and depends on your own personal path. “Dreams are the royal road to the unconscious” (Sigmund Freud), and not even you know what is hiding in your subconscious until you reach it.

Maybe some people would say that 5 years is a lot of time to achieve our dreams, but I prefer to see it from another perspective. I have a friend with 65 years old that was working 7 days a week as a teacher, and can’t anymore because she was fired for being too old to work. She spent her entire life believing in the system and now she’s seen by this same system as an expired package of milk.

For the society, her life ended, but for her it never really begun. So, although 5 years seems a lot of time, it’s more for a 65 year old woman than for a 29 year old man.

The saddest sentence I ever heard came from a 70 year old painter I met in the US: “My mother died at 75, I’m 70, and I haven’t achieved any award with my paintings”.

She was looking for a solution and that’s why she couldn’t find any in me. She shouldn’t have got angry when I forced her to talk about the negative things happening in USA, as the basic problem in her dozens of paintings is that they don’t transmit any message. Abstract art painters often spend too much time hiding behind their nonsense, instead of using the freedom that this style in particular allows.

As one critic told her: “Any monkey could do the same”. And somehow he is correct, although there’s something worse in the way she paints than in what a monkey would do, and that’s the sense of hopelessness, need, fear and despair. The world has enough of that already.

The shortest path to success in art, if I could put it into words, is altruism, but if you don’t care about anything in the world, and even get angry at people that show you the truth, how can you be altruistic?

And why would you paint, or draw, or even create music, if you're not altruistic? "The ego is not master in its own house" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

There's not much we can do for such individuals. "God leaves whoever He will to stray and guides whoever He will. Do not waste your soul away with regret for them: God knows exactly what they do" (The Creator, in The Quran).

I have achieved my dreams by sacrificing 5 years of my youth and health, as I'm now only 34, but already have over 200 published books online and a huge background of life experience behind me.

For most people, even sacrificing merely one year of their life with intense discipline and hard work, while waking up early in the morning and every morning, seems crazy, and that's why they can't transform their energy and achieve the new reality they want. But "God's promise is true, so do not let the present life deceive you" (The Creator, in The Quran).

The word sacrifice is actually unpleasant for most individuals, but it's the correct word to apply here, as you do need to destroy your previous personality in order to recreate a new one that will match the life you want. You can't create a new life with the person you once were. It is like creating a Batman movie with Peter Pan as the hero. "Human salvation demands the divine disclosure of truths surpassing reason" (Thomas Aquinas, Catholic Priest and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 67: The alchemical transmutation occurs along the path of spiritual realization.

The Employee of God

IN A NOT SO DISTANT past, I didn't had any time to go anywhere and couldn't keep a normal relationship with anyone. But two years later I was sleeping an average of eight hours a day and having the time and money to travel all over Europe and Asia. In less than two years, I was in France, Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, Germany, England, Italy, Turkey, China, India, Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Hong Kong, Macau, Indonesia, and living for a certain period in these countries as a writer, when not lecturing at a University. I actually visited some of these countries more than once, because I love Italy and small paradises on earth like the Philippines.

As for the money that allowed me to travel so much, I can positively say that it came out of nowhere. "My Lord gives in abundance to whoever He will" (So Sheba, in The Quran).

Most people can't see, even if you tell them, that money doesn't exist. Money is literally speaking an IOU – I owe you. Therefore, we're all exchanging beliefs between one another.

We live in a planet in which humans believe that, if they give a piece of paper to someone, that someone will do something for them. So we work for pieces of paper. Then, we use those pieces of paper to buy stuff and food, because the ones that receive our pieces of paper believe that they can also use it for themselves.

"Money is simply a symbol that people are confident can be converted into goods" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology). If I was giving ILUs (I love you) to people, it would not work, wouldn't it? If I gave ITUs (I trust you) to people, it would not work as well, wouldn't it?

As humans, we have learned to love and trust money, while losing love and trust for one another. That's how money became the anti-Christian symbol of our world, opposing the Christian alchemic transmutation as Jesus taught us.

By putting my trust in God and my love in the alchemical transmutation, which working on my dreams leads me to, I was able to attract ideas, and those ideas inspired me to create something new. That which I created was a product, with value. So, indeed, “those who submit to God have found wise guidance” (The Jinn, in The Quran).

As I improved the value of my product by working on it, I was able to listen more carefully to what God was trying to tell me to do, and that’s how you attune to your life purpose on earth. It is like synchronizing to a radio frequency until you find a clear and undisruptive signal, which in this case is the beautiful harmony of the voice of God speaking from your subconscious, while at the same time showing correlated signs in the physical world, which you perceive with your conscience.

I never follow anything that isn’t correlated between my subconscious and conscious perceptions, as I know that this is how I identify the message that God has for me. In fact, this is how God protects me as well, when sending messages about my enemies and my future, far before anyone gains any advantage. I have written many books that otherwise would be impossible, due to messages received in dreams, and I’ve also predicted future events that would affect my life tremendously, by receiving warnings through the same process.

“Everyone does things their own way, but your Lord is fully aware of who follows the best-guided path” (The Quran 17:72). And, as you can see, the only true job I have, is as an employee of God, under the management of Christ and his alchemical chart of spiritual wholeness.

Over the years, God has been increasing my salary, which comes from different sources, namely and mostly my books. And, when men, in their greed, try to take it away, God shows me new paths. This is why I don’t compete against any human being in what I do.

The constant cycle of ideas I get are orders received by God, and the people I meet are assignments He gives me in order to fulfill his tasks. So, I keep on trusting him and, as a consequence, money keeps flowing into my life. And because I'm a good worker, God keeps giving me more projects in the form of ideas, and more challenges as well.

"Do people think they will be left alone after saying 'We believe' without being put to the test?" God "tested those who went before them: God will certainly mark out which ones are truthful and which are lying" (Alif Lam Mint, in The Quran). The real temple of God is within your heart.

I do my best, by dedicating my whole life and time to Him, and He compensated me, first by allowing me to enjoy vacations in many beautiful countries and work in these countries as well, and then the same without the need to work for anyone else in the countries I choose to live. So, if God "created the heavens and the earth and everything in between" (Sad, in The Quran), I guess I'm probably spending most of my time in between. When I sit in a coffee shop, feeling peaceful with the sun in my face, and watching people passing by, from point A to point B, and then from point B to A, thinking about work and stressing about bills, I feel like a ghost, not a common human.

In this company that people call life, I don't fear or worry about the future, but people around me can't understand why. I know that "the happy ending is awarded to those who are mindful of God" (The Story, in The Quran). I don't fear the future because I know that, if God fires me from His organization that I call life, and takes away from me my project, which I call life purpose, I can always find another job, working for Satan and paper money, like anyone else.

Whatever is the choice, I can always go back to God's company, because He doesn't send anyone away forever like humans do. He just forces us to learn with the rival, so that then humans can become more efficient in God's company.

Sometimes I try to find people to work with me and help me, as my partners in God's company, but humans don't accept 'I Love You' or 'I Trust You', and I prefer not to owe anyone anything, except to God, so I don't offer them any 'I Owe You' either. Besides, how could I offer ‘Owes’ to someone that doesn’t exchange ‘Trusts’ and ‘Loves’ with me?

I can’t offer promises to someone that doesn’t love or trusts me.

Code 68: The only thing worth working for is love and trust, and you increase your value by being lovable and trustable.

The Path of Darkness

IF EVERYONE STARTED achieving their dreams with the knowledge presented in this book, the whole system would bankrupt and fail. That's why movies, the media and advertisements on TV, have a huge investment behind them, in the effort to make sure that you stay inside the programming that the Power Elite intends to maintain. And, with propaganda and "scientific research", it's very easy to do adjustments in that Programming along the way.

Code 69: The rules of a system make it what it is.

That's also why we have passports and have to present ourselves as belonging to a certain country and a certain race of people, even though it doesn't make any sense, with the huge amount of migration and "interbreeding" that human history has witnessed.

Unless a person realizes this madness and the prison in which is living, won't ever be able to wake up and change reality, independently of what he or she might believe.

Before becoming a writer and gradually changing my life in a new direction, I had debts that were 5 times more than my salary, had nearly no social life due to the lack of free time available, and was living under the effects of self-mind-programming, high amounts of sugar, vitamins and other chemicals to keep me awake during the day and asleep during the night, and had many physical illnesses, as well as an increasing depression that could have killed me faster than anything else. But one day I said: "enough" and stopped everything.

I decided to quit my jobs and work at night as a security-guard for one year. During those very cold winters, surrounded by darkness and the smell of feces from the broken toilet near me, I read for 12 hours a day, non-stopping, and pushed my spirit and the laws of the universe as much as I could. I did that with what I had studied in religious societies throughout my entire life, and by perfecting my awareness during that year and applying it for the very first time with the intention of changing the future.

Code 70: Reality is an illusion that can be reshaped like clay.

Life isn't always perfect, everyone has problems, and the biggest challenge, when we wish to change, may be related to our darkest fears and learning to confront them. And my biggest fear was related to not being important as a person, not having a job that dignifies me and not having a fulfilling social life. Therefore, this job was perfect to make me feel isolated, humiliated and unimportant to society.

I accepted it and appreciated it as an opportunity to grow spiritually and earn more time to read and write my books. "One must be humble, one must keep personal preferences and antipathies in the background, if one wishes to discover the realities of the world" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

Today, although I have collected hundreds of enemies during past years, and many more when my life improved dramatically, I am in peace and happy with what I have achieved. As for money, it won't help me in the after-life and I've learned enough not to depend on it like the majority of the programmed human society, but mainly in Holland and Spain, where people are already being chipped for cheap discounts on drinks in nightclubs.

I still have things to say and share, and I will keep writing books and making sure the system brings me back the necessary money to keep living a life by revealing truths than can help and uplift others and the whole world altogether. And if this world wishes to make me more famous in the following years and lead me to being more important than many that are now and shouldn't be, as they're just reinforcing the system pushed in front of society, this isn't in my plans or dreams, and surely means getting more challenges in my life than any benefits whatsoever. In fact, being invisible has been the best thing I've learned to do, because even the fact that I don't have wrinkles and grey hair has become a motive to attack me.

We're never completely out of the system but we can become independent from it. And, thanks to the knowledge exposed in this book, I'm now complete within myself, so I wish for you that you obtain the same. Changes change as much as you want to change and there're many ways to look at life, but only one thing makes the difference: Are you happy with yours?

Deprogramming the Mind

THE PROGRAMMING OF the mind reveals itself in several common affirmations such as “only rich people attract money”, “money comes with hard work”, “work comes before pleasure”, “only smart people get money”, “only people with college degrees are successful”, “to achieve dreams it is necessary to first have money”, or “money belongs to evil people”.

This list could continue but the Elite can be distinguished from the rest by their affirmations, stated in a single conversation or speech, and they always contradict the beliefs of the majority.

Our brain acts as a filter of what is perceived in our reality, so if the previous list of beliefs filters our perception of opportunities in life, dreams and wishes, we will always perceive our existence as limited and without any potential for change. This is what we’ve been told to believe and what most people accept, and tends to be reinforced in our interactions with others, if we spend most of our time with individuals that think like us.

There is a community or group programming and a personal or individual programming. In order to deprogram yourself, become free from social programming and get what you want from life, follow the following steps:

- Write everything that you wish to obtain in life;
- Divide it in columns;
- Below each wish, write your beliefs about it;
- Then, write the opposite every time it is negative;
- And finally, write a justification for each affirmation;
- Go to a mirror and repeat your positive beliefs.

Follow this routine every morning until you feel comfortable with the affirmations, as that’s when the negative charge of your beliefs has been cleaned.

To get faster results, create cards and read the affirmations every day in your spare time, such as when waiting for the bus or subway, or in a waiting-room, starting by the ones that make you feel more uncomfortable.

You can also improve faster, if you choose goals that seem more realistic to you, such as earning a certain amount of extra money every month, instead of wishing something abstract like becoming a billionaire. The following is an example of how to apply it:

- Wish: Earn an extra $1000 every month;
- Column: Money;
- Belief: I'm not smart enough to earn more, I don't have good ideas to earn more and I don't have time to do anything else.
- Opposite: I can learn, I can have profitable ideas and I can create more time.
- Justification: Last year I learned how to cook French food, 5 years before that I sold my car and I can get up early on Saturday to work on my ideas.
- Self-deprogramming: Go to a mirror and repeat the previous affirmations and justifications while looking at your eyes: "I can learn, because last year I learned how to cook French food, I can have profitable ideas because 5 years ago I was able to sell my car and make money from it, and I can create more time to work on my ideas by getting up early on Saturday.

As a result, you will first start feeling more confident and then you'll notice that once in a while you get an idea about what you can do to achieve your goals or an intuition about things you should be doing to clear the way for your ideas to come, such as selling your non-useful items in the house, donate stuff, etc.

If you repeat these affirmations with a smile, your body relaxes and it's easier to get rid of the discomfort of contradicting old beliefs.

Education, the media and culture, did a very good job in programming you with observable facts, but it is possible to find the opposite facts to deprogram you for everything in life, especially regarding beliefs about money.

If you find it difficult, technology in today's world can help, as you can type on internet things like "how I learned", "how I got profitable ideas", "how I created time in my life", to realize that there're many people in the world that can do it and have done it. But you can also type "how to learn", "how to get an idea" and "how to gain time" to learn everything you need.

Delusional and Realistic Dreams

THE PROBLEM WITH MOST people is that, they're so trapped in their life and problems accumulated and learned to accept, they then try to learn from blogs and books with titles like "how to become a millionaire" or "how to get money".

Concepts like millionaire and money are abstract and part of a delusional world, so you won't be able to understand the application of the knowledge if you keep thinking with the same paradigm that made you poor.

I had a friend that wanted to become rich but couldn't even find a job. I saw his resume and invited him to perform a fake interview with me. The result was clear, as he didn't know how to behave and his resume didn't prove his competence in any field where he wanted to work.

I told him how to behave in a job interview and changed his resume to a much more professional description and presentation. And just a few days after, he was receiving many calls for job interviews, and less than a month later he got a job.

One year passed, and with the money accumulated from this new job, he decided to start a business. But one month after that was bankrupt.

He couldn't understand why he failed, so I offered him many business magazines I had with biographies of successful entrepreneurs. From those readings, he realized that a business in real-estate was the fastest way to money. But, in one year, he only sold one house and didn't know what was wrong. After a brief conversation, it was clear that he didn't have any experience in selling anything, didn't know how to communicate with others and wasn't learning anything about his business. Therefore, I bought him two books about the experience of famous real-estate agents.

He seemed very happy to receive those books, but in the next day told me that he didn't agree with what he was reading and didn't though they would apply in his situation.

I also suggested him different strategies to market his houses, but he didn't felt comfortable with the ideas and didn't follow them as well.

The truth is that he will never be a successful person, because he isn't connected to his dream, but merely the illusion of making money.

I could easily see his problem, because the alchemical steps to attract success are always the same, although manifested differently in each person.

To illustrate this using other examples, I will mention two of my former students. One got rich before finishing her major, by simply focusing in what she loved to do and what she had to learn to be able to do it. Her major was in languages and she loved to travel, so she studied Portuguese, Spanish and English, went to South America as an exchange student, offered her services online to Chinese tourists and in her spare time traveled with those individuals while making tons of money.

After one year, she went back to her country because she had to finish her major, but told me that she could already afford an independent lifestyle in South America or Europe.

The other, was graduating in teaching but didn't like it, so, as I suggested her, she went to USA to explore other possibilities in life, made many friends and experienced something new, like teaching children with learning disabilities, and loved it. She then decided to apply for a Master's degree in the US in the field of learning disabilities, and with my recommendation letter she was chosen in the exact University she wanted. She's now very happy with her new life and knows exactly what she wants for the future.

These three stories have me as the main character in them, but in one situation my advice was neglected several times, while in others it was followed until the end. So, we must admit that attitude is what determines success.

Code 71: Attitude determines what we achieve.

If we have guidance in life, like those two students, and we trust it, like the words of a successful and popular lecturer, it's much easier. Egocentrism and pride is what make us neglect the perspective of friends that are doing their best to help us, as it was the situation of my friend. But "God does not love the arrogant" (The Bee, in The Quran).

I could disclose many more stories, because I have seen the same principle being applied dozens of times, and not even necessarily due to my own knowledge being exposed.

The most impressive experience happened to me before I quit working as a lecturer, when I decided to show a video in the classroom about business. Only one student, among 80, approached me in the end of the class asking to copy the video, and inviting me for lunch to ask more questions about it.

As we were eating, she wrote everything I said, about how to connect the principles of the video with her ambitions, which seemed very simple and naive, but would determine her whole future. She was the only student in that class that never needed to search for a job, because she created her own company and is still successfully managing it. She even employed two of her former classmates. She changed her entire life in one day, and she wasn't even among the brightest students. So, "let us sacrifice one day to gain perhaps a whole life" (Victor Hugo, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

The Power of Help

USUALLY, THE MAIN PROBLEM with most people is that, once they start failing in life, they believe their situation is hopeless, and because of that attitude, they don't believe in being helped.

When you are attracting the future you wish to have, you'll first either attract people that want to help you, helpful ideas or information that helps. And for these situations to manifest within your awareness, you must believe that you can be helped and develop faith in yourself.

Among what I've seen, if I had to divide people into successful and unsuccessful with one single word, I would use faith, and with three words, I would say: 'belief in help'. "You feel alive to the degree that you feel you can help others" (John Travolta, Scientology).

Code 72: Believe in help if you want to be helped.

This belief will expand your awareness, making you notice things that you couldn't see before, while gaining ideas and insights that you never had.

Whatever you see or think about when this process is occurring, it's always personal, so don't expect others to understand it or even accept it.

When I decided to become a writer, I had a strong feeling from within that I should leave my country behind and experience a new reality. I couldn't understand why but I followed my instinct. And, years later, I realized that this instinct was related to my love for writing, as by traveling I met many amazing people that inspired me, experienced new things that made me get more ideas for my books and gained much more time to write than I could ever imagine before.

If I hadn't done it, I wouldn't have succeeded. But, when I left my country, every single person tried to persuade me to stay with strong justifications to prove they were right about it.

One person owned a private school and offered me a management position with a partnership in her business, in which I would gain a 50% profit in extracurricular activities developed. She said I was crazy in refusing this opportunity for another in which I would earn much less and just be a teacher.

My friends said that it was crazy to leave the country for a less profitable opportunity. And my family said it would be wiser to try to find a job in a richer country.

The main point is that nobody believed I could make a career as a writer, and that was the reason I had not to listen to any of them, because that was my dream.

The rest was secondary for me, although they were seeing it as crucial, namely, the country, the salary and leaving them behind.

We shouldn't waste our life living someone else's project for our existence. "To be understood is to prostitute oneself" (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 73: There's only one way in life and that's forward.

Reprogramming the Mind

IN ORDER TO REPROGRAM your mind, you must rewrite the story of your life, starting from the positive aspects of your past.

First, you must write about the most positive things accomplished and experienced, and then about the ones that you would like to achieve in a way that sounds natural to you.

End the exercise by reading the story to a recorder. Mix the result with your favorite music, using one that doesn't have any lyrics. You can use sound editing software for this purpose. And, when the recording is finished, put your earphones and listen before going to bed.

You can do the same thing for beliefs you wish to have, such as by repeating "you can learn", "you can make more money", "you are smart", "you are beautiful", etc.

You don't have to worry about how contradictory your reality may seem, as in time many things will happen that will shift it, such as obtaining new ideas, meeting new people, getting new opportunities and having new experiences.

Some of the first changes to experience may seem dramatic, if you suddenly lose your job and friends start leaving your life, or if you start failing in certain aspects of what you usually do. But, from another perspective, this is the first manifestation of alchemical transmutation before you enter a new path in your life.

Most people try to keep what they're losing or become depressed about what they can't maintain, but the right attitude is to accept change and have faith in a bright new future, because you must be aware of the opportunities that any calamity brings. "Failure is simply the opportunity to begin again, this time more intelligently" (Henry Ford, Loyal Order of Moose).

Code 74: Reality attracts what we expect to experience.

Reprogramming Emotional Attitudes

YOUR ATTITUDE TO YOUR efforts will determine if you can keep with them or suddenly start losing interest in following your life plan.

Most people can't finish a project or apply an idea because they don't have enough willpower to move it forward. But this exercise will teach you how to gain it:

- Write about a task that you are avoiding or dislike doing;
- Then write how you could make the task more interesting and joyful;
- Finally, write about how you could control this task with activities.

As an example, if you dislike cooking, you can think about how you could cook while listening to music or audiobooks related to your favorite subjects. As a control method, you can measure either how much you can learn from an audiobook while cooking, or how fast you can cook with music.

If you dislike reading, think about the possibility of reading in a garden with beautiful trees around you while uplifting your mood. As a control method, you could count how many pages you can read in 30min, and try to surpass that record every time you read a book.

Another control method for books, including audiobooks, is to underline or write in a paper everything that you believe to be important for your life, and then create a short resume with those quotes to remember and share with others.

It's very important, during this reprogramming, that you develop self-control. And you can do this by developing a sense of responsibility for yourself.

A good habit related to this attitude is helping others with what you do. It's easier to get motivation to read, if you then share what you have learned with others that may need the information. Inviting people once in a while to have lunch with you, can also help in gaining motivation to cook well and with joy.

Code 75: It's easier to help yourself when you want to help others.

My books were inspired by conversations with others that I didn't plan but loved, and in which I shared my knowledge related to their questions and problems in life. It's because I have a strong will to help other people that I keep getting insights and ideas to write new books. And, in many situations, books also emerged from inspired emails.

The same happened to me when I was DJing, organizing music events, and even when managing companies. Those companies profited with my work and started obtaining fast results because I had a strong desire to help the group working with me.

"To fulfill a dream, you must forget it, remove your attention from it" (Fernando Pessoa, Rosicrucian). And you do this by submerging into the love you have for what you do.

This book, for example, was possible due to my strong desire to share this knowledge with others, and not because I intended to be recognized, sell thousands of copies and become popular with it, as it ended up happening. It was what I dreamed but not where I had put my attention when creating it, and not the reason that led me to write it.

I've also noticed that most people that have met me in person, can't learn from me, because they are focusing either in my reputation or their purpose. So, they end up asking the wrong questions, questions that lead nowhere. The ones that benefited from it, were just being themselves, and honesty led them to the acknowledgement they needed to acquire.

Emptying the Mind

EVERY TIME YOU GO OUT of the house, you'll arrive back with a changed vibration, usually affected by a stressful work or unfriendly people.

It is normal that everyone currently in your reality affects you with their belief regarding who you are and should be, so they'll be part of the challenge of changing yourself as they'll resist it.

In order to make your body resonate a new vibration all the time, you can do a visualization exercise: Search for images of what you wish to attract in life in the internet and put them altogether in a folder of your computer. In the end of the day, put a nice music and observe your images, one by one, as a slideshow in the screen of the computer. If you wish, you can also use software to create a video with those images and your favorite music playing in the background.

Watch the images or video until you feel more relaxed and in tune with your new chosen vibration of happiness and accomplishment. Then, close your eyes, with a straight back and the head aligned with your shoulders, relax the shoulders and empty your thoughts by imagining a white screen. Stay in this position for a few minutes until you find yourself feeling at peace. The whole exercise should last about 10 minutes and must be kept as a daily routine, in order to wash your thoughts after washing your body.

Another exercise that you can do for the same purpose consists in writing the 88 codes of this book, hang them on a wall in a place where you usually rest or work, and read them often. You can replace the codes with personal examples, when you believe that you've understood them enough with your life experience.

Forgiving

IN ORDER TO OBTAIN a new future, you must leave the past behind. An exercise that you can do to train yourself, consists in closing your eyes and visualizing those that have hurt you or those that programmed negative beliefs in you. Then, say to them: “I forgive you for... and I let you go”.

When finishing it, say to yourself: “From this negative experience I’ve learned something positive and it was...”

End the exercise by saying to yourself: “I’ve changed and I’m now in a new path. I’m a new person”.

Repeat this exercise every time you feel inner blocks regarding what you wish to obtain in life.

Here’s an example of how to say it: “I forgive Mary for making me believe that money comes from hard work and I let her go; From this negative experience I’ve learned something positive and it was that people have their own beliefs but I must be independent if I wish to have a different life; I’ve changed and I’m now in a new path. I’m a new person”.

Remember that we become what we believe that we should be, so resentment may stop us from realizing it. Resentment and victimization affects your vibration and leads you to attract challenges related to more situations that make you feel like a victim and resentful.

People that behave in a way that hurts others aren’t within the light of God and they don’t know why they do it, except for the unreasonable pleasure that they feel. In other words, they’re very sick from a mental and spiritual point of view. You must recognize this fact in order to forgive them, even though you don’t have to accept them.

Code 76: We must learn to forgive those that live in darkness.

The more conscious you are regarding how your own surrounding affects you, the more you’ll be in control of your life and wishes.

As you apply the knowledge exposed in this book, you'll start seeing more about the codes that program the society around you, and that's when you realize that seeing is more important than having. "The highest manifestation of life consists in this: that a being governs its own actions" (Thomas Aquinas, Catholic Priest and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 77: Knowing who to love is more important than possessing love or avoiding hate.

This is the meaning of the All-Seeing-Eye, the living conscience of truth. And freedom comes with this awakening. "In order to improve the mind, we ought less to learn, than to contemplate" (René Descartes, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 78: Life is a mystery unveiled by the conscience of truth.

Uplifting the Spirit

OBSESSIVE THOUGHTS and uncontrolled worries are manifestations of the power of the subconscious programming over the conscious ability of a human being. They are more predominant in environments charged with radiation, when under physical pain or emotional suffering, and when our health isn't in a good condition. Therefore, it's true that, when you do something outside of the inner reality, your condition improves. "To improve is to change; to be perfect is to change often" (Winston Churchill, Freemason and member of the Ancient Order of Druids of Oxford).

This happens because of our condition as spiritual beings - we learn with observation and actions. So, there are tricks you can apply to control thoughts and they work all the time. To begin with, choose one point in the horizon, a very faraway point, such as an object, a person, a bird or a house, and just observe it.

You can change to different points in that distant horizon and, if you play golf, it is even better, as the reason why the Power Elite loves to play golf is because this sport allows practicing this skill. This is enough to clean the mind of worries and the results are usually faster than meditation.

The same principle applies in other ways, such as the observation of the corners of a room. But you can also play games with your mind, like trying to find objects of a certain color in the environment. It will help you exercise control over the brain.

Regarding using actions to change your condition, you can simply hold and release an object several times. You can also give orders to yourself and to the object, and then follow them. Start by saying your name and then give yourself a command like: "John, go pick up that cup of water!" Then, say to the cup: "come to my hand". Following this, you can say: "thank you" and "now go back", while placing the cup back in the same place.

This last exercise may sound strange to you, but works every time, because as human beings we operate with space, actions (or energy) and matter (observation and communication with atoms or the physical world).

Children do this naturally when playing with objects and roleplaying. That's how they exercise their brain and self-control, and that's also why the best exercises for hyperactive children are those in which they use the body to interact with objects, like playing with clay or painting things.

From a quantum physics point of view, the atoms move with conscience, so you attract that in which you focus, but by focusing upon it you also channel your energy to that observation, instead of allowing it to randomly manifest thoughts inside your mind. This means that your reality is affected by the way you communicate with it, either it is in the form of an object, a project or people around you.

Communication increases your awareness, and that's reality, but both depend on the level of affinity, acceptance and appreciation that you have with the things within your awareness.

Code 79: Appreciation for what we have releases love in our magnetic field.

When we're forced to spend time in an environment where we don't feel safe and comfortable, we can't appreciate it or feel any connection with it. Instead, we start losing self-control, losing focus and having more thoughts inside our mind, which eventually lead to depression, especially if we don't have a way to compensate them with joyful activities.

How to Control Our Thoughts

FOCUSING (OR COMMUNICATING with observation) in objects and things outside of our mind, expands awareness (perception of reality), which will eventually allow us to understand that reality and, in doing so, learn to appreciate it and control much more. “The eye of a master will do more work than both his hands” (Benjamin Franklin, Freemason and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Most people have difficulties in applying this principle when dealing with others because, at some point, their fear controls their conscious mind, so they start thinking more, about what to say, when to say it, how to say, etc. And when something fails, they spend the rest of the day thinking about it and trying to find another way to control it.

If you want to learn how to control your social environment, instead of being controlled by it, and then become affected by the self-judgments of the mind programming, start looking at people as individuals outside of your body. Observe their eyes and recognize their existence. When they speak, analyze their words and intentions. And ask questions when you don't understand something.

You may need to learn to touch them, like handshaking every day, to make sure they are real for you as individuals, and not just a construct of your imagination. These attitudes will help you feel better, because that's what you're supposed to do as a spirit on earth. “Wisdom is the daughter of experience” (Leonardo Da Vinci, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

It is also due to this spiritual need of interacting with the physical world that people feel good when they work, especially in things in which they can create something or use their body. The more you suffer from depression and uncontrolled thoughts, the more you need to interact with the physical world to heal.

The opposite is also true, as if you lack good communication with reality, it's because you spend too much time inside your brain, thinking. But you're not your brain, so unless you observe the thoughts from outside, you get easily trapped.

The best way to analyze a thought and make it disappear, when it comes to you, is to write it down.

I have many thoughts because I write books, but I don't think all the time, because I control the thoughts. And you too can control your thoughts by analyzing their purpose and how you can apply it.

As an example, I only think when I have to, like when I write, or when I can, such as when I'm not doing anything, but, when I'm not writing or relaxing, I focus in the physical environment. This is how you improve communication with your reality, control thoughts and feel happier, while becoming more efficient as well.

As you're made of atoms and molecules, when improving the interaction with your environment, you're actually improving your level of interaction with the energy world from which you are also a part. And this explains why we feel so happy when we're successful, as it makes us feel that we can control our energy in this world of energy. It makes us feel like we're evolving as a spirit.

As beings of light, the only thing that truly matters is this light, "God's first creature, which was light" (Sir Francis Bacon, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

The brain works with emotions, so we tend to think and analyze according to what we feel. And that's how we get trapped into believing that something makes sense just because we feel that it is familiar to us. We then end up having inner conversations because we're not looking at things as they really are.

Healing the Soul

YOU CAN'T CHANGE THE past and you shouldn't waste energy regretting it or feeling pity for yourself. If memories emerge in your mind when doing the exercises explained in this book or meditating, it's because they're still very important for you. And they're usually the first thing emerging from your awareness about your emotional suffering.

The purpose of awareness and conscious meditation is to access negative memories holding you back, and that's why true knowledge can help remembering them. If you can remember the past, it means that the experience isn't as powerful to control you subconsciously as it was before. In other words, you gained more control over your life.

If there's a benefit in meditating, it would be this one, which means relaxing enough to realize things that consciously you wouldn't. Knowing these things increases your awareness about yourself. But, what's truly important is what you do with such awareness. You shouldn't be stuck in the past, but instead use it to improve your future.

“When we go to our sanctuary we must go as the lover who hastens to his beloved – our spirit must fly ahead of our slow/moving body in eager anticipation of the delights in store for us, and we must forget all else in the thoughts of adoration which fill us on the way. This is literally true: the feeling required for success resembles nothing in the world so much as that which draws the lover to his beloved; it is even more ardent and intense” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 80: We must look at the past with our eyes in the future.

Do you know why you have difficulties in finding your life purpose? It's because you have pain holding you back, and that pain is what conditions your thoughts when you have to make decisions.

A decision is a conscious act and random thoughts are subconscious manifestations. So, when you have to make a conscious decision, like realizing what makes you happy, but you have thoughts making you think about something else or doubting it, it's not the thoughts that matter but their purpose. In this situation, usually the purpose is to make you doubt yourself and disbelieve your potential with ideas like "I can't do it", "I can fail", etc.

These thoughts can emerge from another perspective as well, like "what would a successful person do?"

One way or another, they're related to a feeling - disbelief in yourself, and this feeling is related to a strong emotional negative experience in your past. The reason why you get trapped in thoughts, if you focus on them, is that the thought is subconscious and therefore it consumes your energy.

Analysis is a conscious act, so the ability to analyze something is the ability to control thoughts. Your purpose must then be to know which thoughts are controlling you and why, where do they come from and who or what made them stay there as "emotional buttons" controlling your mind.

You can write your negative beliefs about yourself and then ask yourself: Who made me believe this? What experience made me believe this? You can close your eyes, focus on the belief and ask the questions until you get the answers. Instead of "om", you repeat "who made me believe this?" several times, until your subconscious answers the question with images and mind movies about the past.

Once you know it and re-experience it as an outsider, an observer, it won't have more power over you. The tears that may come out of this exercise are emotional charges releasing from your body, accumulated pain vanishing away. When this is done, you don't need to stay in that past anymore. You can forgive yourself.

The best way to heal, consists in using that awareness about past events to know what you're doing wrong in the present and learn to be happier.

Achieving Your Life Purpose

PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE are illusions. They only exist in our mind. Researches in Quantum Physics tell us that time is a construct of our brain.

Although our body gets older, our spirit only experiences present time. So, the question is: Why can we remember the past but not predict the future? And the answer is related to our purpose as a spiritual being. If we knew the future, we could easily avoid responsibility and delay our spiritual development.

Knowing the past allows learning with our mistakes and the mistakes of others. So, knowing the past allows developing responsibility in the present, and, with this responsibility in hands, we consciously create our future.

When we are accepting full responsibility for what we do, we start developing premonitions, insights and ideas, about what we should be doing, as if the future was manifesting to us in the same proportion of our accepted responsibility. In other words, the more you work towards achieving what you want, the more good ideas you get about how to achieve it faster.

Code 81: Visions are proportional to responsibility.

The world is made of atoms, thoughts are made of atoms, and the future is made of atoms. So, when you control these atoms with physical actions and focus in the future atoms with your intentions, your vision of the future you want, you attract situations that reposition you in the power of getting it.

What for most people represents isolation, challenges and changes, is actually, from this perspective, a transmutation of the physical body to an environment where the conscious mind can more easily create a new future, the future we have desired before.

There's no accident, misfortune, disaster, coincidence or luck in life, and we can only lose that and those which we're irresponsible about.

You lose things because you didn't work hard enough to get them and because you didn't believe enough in yourself. And you lose people because you were too selfish to realize their needs and life purpose.

Code 82: We lose what we're irresponsible about.

I keep finding lots of information about cancer and arthritis, marketing and money, as well as simple descriptions about the law of attraction, and I know exactly why, as it is my responsibility to act towards that knowledge, by providing it to the ones that need it. I don't want my friends to fail in life and I don't want my family members to die, so I keep attracting the knowledge that they need, and I take responsibility about it, by sending this information to them and sharing it whenever I have the chance to talk to them about it. This is being responsible for the ones around you and they'll love you and respect you for your efforts in helping them, even if they can't help themselves and have no hope in life.

When you're aware of this and act accordingly, you gain control over your life. And with this positive control (which shouldn't be confused with manipulation), you get a very enlightening, deep and amazing feeling of happiness, accomplishment and fulfillment.

Code 83: We're responsible for everything and everyone in our environment.

The Rejection of the Light

IF THOSE IN NEED DON'T appreciate your help and withdraw from your life, it's because they have decided to die. When trying to help them you're exposing them as liars, hiding their conscious and true intention behind their sick, weak, needy and vulnerable appearance.

Alcoholics, drug addicts and other mentally sick individuals that refuse help, are examples of people that are slowly committing suicide intentionally. They want you to feel guilty and negative about it to gain pleasure from your worries.

These individuals are the zombies and the vampires of our world and unfortunately they are a majority. Most people live in an extremely unconscious level of existence and they are dangerous for your integrity and threatening to your life.

This is why sometimes you need to slap others to make them aware of the pain they cause you, shout to impose respect and, basically, tell people what to do with their life, how to do it and why, because they just don't know anymore and can't even realize the need to know it by themselves. "The manifestation of neurosis or insanity is completely undirected action or inaction" (Ron Hubbard, Scientology).

This situation shows itself more necessary towards the psychopaths that control our world and those that unconsciously and blindly support their laws while wearing uniforms and occupying positions that should stand for peace and security. And that's why riots, manifestations and violent revolutions are inevitable if we ever wish to maintain our freedom as human beings. "Revolutions are not born of chance but of necessity" (Victor Hugo, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

As a human race, we won't evolve, if we don't protect and support the innocent and the most enlightened souls. And as spiritual beings, we won't evolve, if we believe that what we see doesn't affect our awareness of who we are. Keeping silent when you witness injustice is to act against your own spirituality, because nothing exists apart of your inner world. “Silence is the virtue of fools” (Sir Francis Bacon, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Just like you attract opportunities that lead you to your dreams, you also attract experiences that test your potential to achieve them. And it’s worth mentioning that, those spreading the idea that you should be positive all the time and not get angry with what you experience, are denying you the opportunity to learn to be responsible for your life.

If you attract a situation that makes you angry, it means you’re supposed to get angry, otherwise you’ll be denying yourself the chance to impose your will, or justice, when it’s being threatened, violated and disrespected. “God did this in order to test everything within you and in order to prove what is in your hearts. God knows your innermost thoughts very well” (The Our, in The Quran).

Imagine you’re in an airplane and a terrorist threatens everyone with a weapon. Do you really think he can shoot dozens of passengers at the same time? Believing that you can’t do anything for others is what gets everyone killed in every single massacre in human history. And, those that have died in the past in such situations, may have to face them again in a future reincarnation if they can’t learn the lesson.

In other words, Hitler killed the Jews as much as the Jews killed themselves by not creating riots and violent opposition against Hitler. As a human race, we won’t evolve until we start accepting these facts, instead of pointing fingers at one another and blaming those that we have allowed to gain power and maintain it.

Code 84: The responsibility to act can be manifested as the responsibility to oppose someone or something.

The Illusion of Happy Thinking

INDIVIDUALS THAT BELIEVE in the idea of being happy all the time while denying themselves the chance to interfere and become angry when a situation demands it, can't attract wealth into their life because they are violating the same laws that they wish to fulfill. But "do you think that most of them hear or understand? They are just like cattle - no, they are further from the path" (The Differentiator, in The Quran).

If you ever wondered why kind people can't attract wealth, now you know that it's not because they're not evil, but because they fear having to oppose evil. And, what you can't oppose, becomes part of you, suppressed within your subconscious. "Unexpressed emotions will never die. They are buried alive and will come forth later in uglier ways" (Sigmund Freud, Freemason).

When you witness injustice and don't do anything about it, you prove yourself unworthy of what you want, and that's why millions of people read tons of books about the law of attraction and can't get anything done in their life.

As hard as it is to say it or admit it, you are responsible for your future and you create it with what you do in the present. But this principle doesn't apply only to the positive side of life, as the negative experiences exist to show you the path to the light. Satan works with the permission of God and both manifest within the same living conscience. They're both operating inside our matrix.

Through different concepts in application, this is the foundation of the Taoist and Gnostic Philosophies. "If you correct your mind, the rest of your life will fall into place" (Lao Tzu, Founder of Taoism).

If you don't think that you have any responsibility in helping others around you and sharing what you know with the world, then you also don't deserve the right to be helped when you need the most and when you want to find what you need to know, just like a father that doesn't care about loving his son doesn't deserve to be loved back later in life when alone and in need of love.

The reason why some people seem to know more than others and get more opportunities and less problems than the rest, is because they're so focused in doing the best they can for the world, that they always attract the best to themselves from that same world.

Code 85: We must give in order to receive.

The paradox of existence is that while you have freewill to choose what you do, including the refusal to support those needing you, the ones that need your help and deserve it, will always get it in another way and from someone else. "All is foreseen, yet man is endowed with free will" (Avot 3:15, in Akiba Mishna).

I never received help or respect from my parents, but I met dozens of people during my life that helped me, strengthen me and taught me the mysteries of life as if I was their own son. God guided me to the Gnostic mysteries, despite the poor and violent environment where I was growing up because I deserved them. And with this knowledge, I made my life become the most unpredictable story anyone could have ever imagine, while transforming myself into someone unreal and impossible to exist to the limited minds of most human beings I met.

You can even be rejected by the whole world but, if God loves you, you own the world. So "seek refuge in God: He is your protector - an excellent protector and an excellent helper (The Quran 22:71).

Code 86: What is taken from you, God gives back in another way.

The Importance of Justice

THE IDEA THAT PROPHETS don't get angry when witnessing injustice and facing individuals of evil intentions, is one of the biggest lies in which people tend to believe about spirituality, as it is to believe that Jesus is the individual that mainstream Christians and Christian movies tend to portray.

When aware of malice, Jesus confronted others with the words: "Why do you put me to the test, you hypocrites? (Matthew 22:18, in The Bible). "No one can serve two Masters, for either he will hate one and love the other, or he will be devoted to one and despise the other (Matthew 6:24, in The Bible), but "evil people and impostors will go on from bad to worse, deceiving and being deceived (Timothy 3:13, in The Bible).

Jesus also said: "Be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves, because if anyone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who looks intently at his natural face in a mirror, for he looks at himself and goes away and at once forget what he was like" (James 1:22-24, in The Bible). But the "wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who by their unrighteousness suppress the truth" (Romans 1:18, in The Bible).

In these Biblical words, Jesus warns us about the danger of losing our awareness and the benefits of our spirituality, when we refuse to act against injustice.

If we contribute to the suppression of truth in the form of justice, respect and love, we too suffer the wrath of God, which is manifested in the withdrawing of his positive energy from us, as well as in the attraction of difficulties and sufferings, which come with the purpose of teaching us a lesson related to our past behavior.

As an example, those that refuse to help the ones in need may start facing problems which nobody around them can help solve. And these problems will prevail until they feel remorse for their actions or start helping others.

In other situations, it may seem that a person has acquired some kind of incurable disease but the source is the same. Kind people get sick because they're too afraid to get angry when they should demand justice.

Anger can only become armful when suppressed and maintained with thoughts associated with resentment and revenge. And they emerge from a subconscious need to do justice when we consciously refuse to do it. So, in fact, resentment and revengeful thoughts are evil manifestations of spiritual weaknesses and the inability to protect the truth.

Those which succumb to such negative emotions emerge in darkness and may become as evil as the ones that once hurt them, although suicidal thoughts can also arise from the same outcome.

The correct action consists in learning from the experience and take actions towards solving it, which sometimes means exposing the truth and the liar, with the risks involved in doing it, and other times means turning away from the situation, although this has been misinterpreted by some Christian societies as "offering the other cheek".

The Challenge of Faith

ALTHOUGH MOST PEOPLE are afraid to lose their job, it's very likely that the application of the law of attraction may bring a situation of disrespect at work in which you're supposed to act in defense of justice and risk losing it.

Once a coworker asked me for help about salaries which my former boss was refusing to pay him. As he was an immigrant, the union refused to help him and, due to fear of losing their own job, nobody else wanted to support him in court.

I helped him and immediately lost my job, but this coworker, in fear of not getting any money, decided to wait for an agreement with the boss, which never happened. As for me, God guided me into reading my working contract, and I found a mistake in it, allowing me to go to court and demand a full year of salaries with the help of the government.

Soon after my threat was official, the company asked their lawyer to talk to me, but although he was trying to trick me, God guided me again, and I ended up being very rude to that man while demanding half of that money immediately and on the table. They quickly run to the ATM machine and came back with the cash. So, I drop the charges. But what they didn't know is that, at that time in my life, I actually couldn't afford to pay a lawyer or go to court, because I had a plane to catch two days later to another country, where I had found a great job after being fired from this company.

Surely, this isn't always as easy as it seems. I have been physically threatened many times, physically assaulted as well, and nearly murdered by poisoning for exposing the truth, but I do believe that I'm still alive because God protects those who protect the truth. "God makes things easy for those who are mindful of Him" (Divorce, in The Quran).

Only fear can cause death and I rather face death than fear. However, “courage is not the absence of fear, but rather the assessment that something else is more important than fear” (Franklin D. Roosevelt, Freemason and member of the Loyal Order of Moose).

Although I’ve grown up with the idea, as most people, that heroes have special powers and strength, like Superman, I later realized that the true heroes of our world are individuals like David Icke, Julian Assange and Alex Jones who, while not having any superpower but facing death at the hands of the most powerful villains in the planet, won’t stop exposing the truth, even when facing ridicule by those that they are protecting the most – the human race.

Jesus may have died for the truth but we haven’t learned it yet and this may lead us to our self-annihilation as a race on this planet. “Every judgement of conscience, be it right or wrong, be it about things evil in themselves or morally indifferent, is obligatory, in such wise that he who acts against his conscience always sins” (Thomas Aquinas, Catholic Priest and member of the Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Code 87: Heroes are those who protect the truth in any circumstance and regardless of any consequence.

The Truth Will Set You Free

AWARENESS IS YOU, YOUR recognition of what exists in your conscious and subconscious mind. So, when you learn more about yourself, about things that you didn't know about you, memories from the past come to present time, because they're related to the new insight. In other words, true knowledge sets you free, because it increases awareness.

As an example, when realizing that you have a bad relation with the world, there's a memory about the reason, an experience making you unaware of your behavior that emerged from the subconscious, and that's why you can recall this memory.

As the conscious and the subconscious are related and part of who you are, you can access both through one of them. Meditation brings the subconscious to the conscious level, while knowledge about yourself increases conscience about what you didn't know before, and that's the subconscious material.

Although for most people meditation and spiritual readings seem like something outside of their reality, and even mystical, they are merely exercises to empower you as a spiritual being, and give you the opportunity to be fully responsible for your life.

From a scientific point of view, when you know who you are and who you aren't, you develop awareness of your past, realizing both what influenced you negatively and positively. When this happens, you become more conscious about what you should be doing in your life, which means you become more aware of your responsibilities as a spiritual individual.

As you take actions based on this awareness, you start developing a better relation with your environment. This positive interaction with your work, people around you and decisions you have to make, increases your happiness and your level of success.

Within this increase of control over the present time, you start postulating more possibilities about the future, because as you have more trust in your potential, you're less afraid of what you want in life.

These ideas and postulates are as important as your memories. Because, as humans, we have memories to develop self-awareness, and we dream to develop control over the environment around us.

When you focus in a dream, you're communicating with the future, which allows developing intuition and insights about that future, namely, by avoiding mistakes. It's you communicating with the potential future and literally being in the future.

The difficulty in doing this, comes from the relation that your energy is keeping with the past. So, the more pain you have inside yourself, the less awareness you have in present time, and the less awareness you have, the less you can dream about the future. It's as if people's spirit was in another dimension while the body is only in one.

If you are separated from your body, you can't truly control it. People stuck in the past do more mistakes, have more accidents and hurt others more as well. But people living in the future, are more efficient, organized, faster and kind, because they're controlling their life towards an ideal.

"The future has many names: For the weak, it means the unattainable. For the fearful, it means the unknown. For the courageous, it means opportunity" (Victor Hugo, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

The True Cause of Death

IN NATURE, NOTHING is stable. Nobody is stuck in present time. People that perform routines, as if they were in the present, are actually stuck and trapped by fears and memories. And because they don't take actions towards creating a better future, life controls them randomly. That's why most people get easily depressed. They think they are their job and their friends, so when losing these elements, they lose self-belief. They also think they are what others think, so when others disrespect them, ridicule them or reject them, they lose confidence.

In other words, as time goes by, the ones that think they are in the present, are actually becoming stuck in a past that was once present. They then keep talking about the jobs they lost, the friends they lost, the problems that certain individuals created in their life, the people that died, etc. When they're not within their conscious present, working towards a brighter future, their energy is stuck in that past and stealing vitality from their body. As the body gets weaker, these individuals develop more diseases, and eventually die.

While most people think that death is inevitable and diseases like cancer are normal, diseases are in fact connected to the immune system, and how oxygen and detoxification are processed within our blood, which is influenced by our control of the physical body.

This control of the physical body is related to the control over physical reality as well. We have more energy to fightback diseases when we have more control over our life.

Within this paradigm, the best cure in the world consists in believing in a dream, because while projecting our spirit into the future, the energy holding us back in the past, and accumulating by association the atoms of the present, is redirected to the extension of life, while redirecting those atoms into the future.

Philosophically speaking, the more you trust in a bright future, the less likely you are to die. "Prayer, true scientific prayer, is one of the most powerful and efficacious methods of finding favor before the face of our Father, and receiving the immersion in spiritual light which alchemically transforms” (Max Heindel, Rosicrucian Fellowship).

Awareness is a source of energy. Therefore, the only natural death is the death of the physical body by old age, in which dying peacefully during sleep after a long and fulfilling life is the best example.

As a spirit, we are immortal, so awareness increases our potential to also experience a better immortality. And those who are more aware, are able to select a new body that will help them continue their work in a new manifestation, while those that aren’t, become trapped in the afterlife, with regrets, anxieties and attachments.

On the other hand, our physical body is related to the physical world, so, as our world evolves into a less dense materialization of matter, our physical bodies can live longer. And what this means is that, if human beings increase their responsibility, awareness and love, as a community of one single brotherhood, our planet uplifts faster and the next generations will live longer. Those next generations are us, re-experiencing our joys and ambitions.

Code 88: Love is immortal and eternal.

Beyond the Secrets

THIS BOOK OFFERED YOU the opportunity to learn the main secrets of the Power Elite and change your life in an uplifting and positive way. With this knowledge, you'll be able to develop discipline and confidence, find your life purpose and attract wealth, while possessing the qualities to make this world a better place for the next generations. However, the insights that you've acquired don't have to stop here.

I would like to offer you much more than that, by showing you a path to spiritual freedom. And that's why I will now guide you through the texts and mystical insights that can expand your awareness about the world and enlighten you furthermore.

There is a huge collection of gnostic materials and ancient texts written by the followers of Jesus Christ and excluded from the Bible in these websites:

<http://www.earlychristianwritings.com>

<http://www.gnosis.org>

Although many societies keep their studies a secret, there are many others opening more to the outsiders and providing an opportunity to be initiated in the light, including through online courses. And, among those, I recommend the following:

Rosicrucian Fellowship: <http://rosicrucian.com>

The Church of Scientology: <http://www.scientologycourses.org>

Freezone Scientology: <http://www.freezoneearth.org>

and <http://internationalfreezone.net>

You can find the gnostic knowledge of the Knights Templar through their many heirs, such as:

The Knights of Solomon: <http://knightsofsolomon.org>

The Knights of Jerusalem: <http://www.smotj.org>

The Knights of Christ: <http://www.ordendeltemple.org>

The Knights of St. John: <http://www.orderstjohn.org>

This knowledge must be kept pure and safe, and can't be in the hands of the wrong individuals. And, for this to happen, you must know who the members of the Power Elite are, what the difference between evil and good is, and who are the false prophets of this world.

To learn about it, I would suggest that you keep an eye on the reporters that are revealing updated information about this world for us to realize the dangers before it's too late, individuals that sacrifice their wellbeing and risk their life to reveal astonishing information about very powerful people in this planet - the Power Elite. And here's their website:

David Icke: <http://www.davidicke.com>

Alex Jones: <http://www.infowars.com>

Julian Assange: <http://mirror.wikileaks.info>

and <http://wikileaks.org>
